Reds Open Conference

Moscow — Behind closed doors, representatives of 75 Communist parties opened a conference long sought by the Soviet Union to demonstrate unity in the Communist movement.

In welcoming the delegations, which in the main were headed by the respective party chiefs, Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet party, expressed a hope that the meeting would serve to "rally the international Communist movement on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism."

With the parties of mainland China and most of Asia absent, the composition of the conference set sharp limits to the realization of Brezhnev's hopes.

The expectation of most knowledgeable observers was that the meeting would either produce a show of unity by avoiding divisive issues or demonstrate that little unity prevails even among parties not allied with or sensitive to China.

General Statement Wanted

Representatives of the Romanian and Italian parties, which present the greatest threat to a show of unity, expressed hope that the Soviet party would accede to their demands to drop the divisive issues and settle for a general statement of unity centering on common opposition to "imperialism."

But informed sources declared that Moscow had given no binding assurances that it was prepared to accept a watered down resolution.

The principal sticking points are the implicit affirmation of Moscow's new theory that socialist countries have a right to restrict the sovereignty of other socialist countries, and the upholding of Moscow's point of view in her ideological battle with China.

Efforts Said Under Way

Intense efforts are believed to be under way to overcome the disagreement. The Romanian and Italian parties have the support of a number of smaller parties, notably those of Britain, Belgium, Switzerland and Austria.

Informed sources said the Romanian and Italian delegations were prepared to press their opposition on the conference floor if the Soviet Union and its allies stand firm on a document that runs counter to their positions. Many amendments to the Soviet draft were offered in preparatory sessions, but only minor changes have so far been accepted.

Perhaps in an effort to prevent such disagreements from becoming public, the Soviet organizers of the conference enforced tight restrictions on news coverage of the meeting itself. Only the text of Brezhnev's welcoming remarks was made public.

Opinion Sought On Overriding Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Speaker of the Legislature Jerome Warner Thursday asked for an attorney general's opinion as to whether the Legislature met constitutional requirements in overriding Gov. Norbert Tiemann's veto of an unlimited self-defense bill.

Lawmakers voted 30-16 to override the veto of LB925.

At issue is the question of whether lawmakers can enact the bill over the veto with only 30 votes when it contains the emergency clause rendering it effective immediately upon enactment.

Whereas only 30 votes are required to override a gubernatorial veto, 33 votes are needed to enact a bill with the emergency provision.

LB925 received 33 votes on final reading when it was passed last week.

Whether 33 votes are needed once again to enact the emergency measure once the veto has been overriden is the constitutional question which Attorney General Clarence Meyer is being asked to consider.

In any event, Warner said he believes the Legislature violated its own rules in permitting the override motion, which failed by one vote on its first try, to be reconsidered upon a motion approved by less than 30 senators.

The motion to reconsider received 29 votes, and Lt. Gov. John Everroad ruled that it carried. His ruling was sustained when challenged.

Everroad also came in for some private senatorial criticism for delaying announcement of the first override vote which failed. Not until the vote is announced is it official.

But Everroad said he abided in all instances by the rules.

"I never form an opinion on these things," he told The Associated Press. "I just go by the rule book."

"Sometimes, though," he said, "it takes a lot of courage to do that."

Senators Override 'Defense Bill' Veto

It took two tries to do it, but the Legislature Thursday overrode Gov. Norbert Tiemann's veto of Sen. Clifton Batchelder's unlimited self-defense bill.

The motion required 30 votes — and that's what it got. Final count was 30-16.

Tiemann, responding at a news conference, called the action "a great tragedy" and expressed hope that lawmakers will repeal the act before the session adjourns.

The first motion to override fell one vote short on a 29-15 vote.

But Sen. Loran Schmit of David City, who was not in the chamber at the time of the first vote, arrived shortly thereafter and requested that the Legislature reconsider the motion.

His request was accepted on a 29-14 count despite Rules Committee Chairman Harold Simpson's protest that the Schmit motion needed 30 votes to prevail.

Lt. Gov. John Everroad ruled that 25 votes were sufficient, and his ruling was sustained on a 30-14 count.

Reds Shoot Up U.S. Recon Jet

. . . Two Crewmen Bail Out

Saigon (AP) — Two U.S. fighter-bombers attacked an antiaircraft site in North Vietnam Thursday after the enemy gunners shot up a reconnaissance plane, forcing the two-man crew to bail out over the Gulf of Tonkin.

It was the 11th retailiatory attack on the North since the United States halted the bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1. It was the first since Dec. 24.

The U.S. Command said two Air Force F4 Phantom jets, flying escort for the reconnaissance plane, attacked the gun position but results were not known.

New Supply Base

The attack came near Dong Hoi, built up as a big supply base since the bombing halt. Dong Hoi is 45 miles north of the demilitarized zone separating the Vietnams.

The crewmen in the crippled $2 million Air Force RF4C managed to fly out over the gulf to a point about three miles from Dong Hoi, where they parachuted.

A rescue helicopter picked them up. One airman was injured and was flown to a hospital ship offshore near the old imperial capital of Hue.

This was the fifth U.S. plane reported shot down over North Vietnam since the bombing halt. Four were reconnaissance planes and the fifth was a fighter-bomber escort. Of 10 crewmen aboard the five planes, four have been rescued and six are listed as missing.

A U.S. spokesman said all 11 American attacks since the bombing halt were reaction to antiaircraft fire on unarmed reconnaissance planes.

U.S. Reserves Right

The United States in announcing the bombing halt reserved the right to continue reconnaissance flights and warned that if the planes were fired upon, escort jets would shoot back.

The incident came as the enemy stepped up action near Saigon and allied officers expected the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese to try something spectacular this weekend, when President Nixon and President Nguyen Van Thieu meet at Midway Island Sunday.

The U.S. 25th Infantry Division estimated it killed 145 enemy soldiers late Wednesday and Thursday on the northwest approaches to Saigon, where the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been inactive lately. U.S. casualties were light.

One clash was seven miles northwest of the division's base camp at Cu Chi, about 15 miles northwest of Saigon, and the other three miles from the Cambodian border farther north.

Attacks To Be Coordinated

A military source said one of six enemy soldiers captured by the 25th said his unit moved into the area Wednesday and was supposed to make coordinated attacks in the Cu Chi, Tay Ninh and Saigon areas some time before Tuesday.

South Vietnamese police in the Saigon area went on 100% alert in anticipation of increased terrorist activity.

The alert, to continue until Tuesday, came after Saigon experienced its worst rash of terrorist acts in nearly a month Thursday. Three persons were killed and eight wounded in six explosions blamed on Viet Cong agents.

A heavy explosion damaged the perimeter of a South Vietnamese ammunition dump early Friday, shaking buildings in downtown Saigon only five miles to the south. It caused no casualties and damage apparently was light, authorities said.

Leader Says Black Students Lack Faith In City Rights Unit

The president of the Afro-American Collegiate Society (AACS) at the University of Nebraska Thursday claimed that black students in Lincoln have lost faith in the Human Rights Commission because "little in the way of results can be shown after a charge of discrimination has been filed."

In remarks at a meeting of the Rights Commission, Wayne Williams said black students "get to feeling discouraged when complaints are investigated and then tabled."

The commission is limited to investigating an alleged discriminatory incident and then can only recommend that legal action be taken. Some charges heard by the commission have been tabled after investigations failed to produce documented proof of discrimination.

Protect Themselves

"Landlords know how to protect themselves, so that it is hard to prove that discrimination occurred," Williams asserted, and he suggested the commission use its own initiative to correct discriminatory acts.

Commission member Gary Hill pointed out, however, that the unit has no power to initiate charges.

Commenting on the problems of blacks in Lincoln and especially those attending the university, Williams said much work remains to be done in the city to end discrimination.

Responding to a question on whether the housing situation has improved since creation of the Human Rights Commission, Williams said: "I think so, but much of the progress has been made by people pulling strings to get blacks into homes."

Faced Petition

Williams said he was personally refused rental units by at least 10 landlords and he said he "left one home because the neighbors in the block got up a petition and presented it to the landlord telling him I was not wanted."

In comments on the situation that led to a recent AACS-led demonstration on the NU campus, Williams said the black students resorted to the public protest because they felt no one cared what happened to them.

"We got channeled from one office to another with our concerns," he said, adding, "we exhausted all channels for getting action" and decided "the demonstration was the best means to tell the public what was happening."

'Lack Of Acceptance

The AACS was formed, he said, so that blacks could have a meaningful life while on campus. He cited a "lack of acceptance" of black students, saying groups that do accept black students are usually involved in activities that have no relevance to the needs and interests of blacks.

When asked what areas other than housing discrimination the commission should concern itself with, Williams suggested the commission also be concerned with social clubs with limited memberships.

Later he also singled out churches, saying "Some blacks are turned off by church activities."

Presiding at the meeting was Charles Huff, who was named to replace Harry (Pete) Peterson as chairman of the commission. Peterson resigned after his election to the City Council.

Open Housing Bill Receives Initial Okay Despite Attacks

The proposed statewide open housing bill, virtually intact despite repeated assaults during four days of stormy debate, sailed forth from its first round floor consideration Thursday on a 35-5 vote.

But first supporters of the measure had to turn back two more efforts to drastically alter the enforcement provisions contained in the proposal.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell and Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff failed to win approval of a substitute bill providing for enforcement by county attorneys when lawmakers deadlocked on a 22-22 vote.

3 One-Vote Decisions

That even division of senatorial sentiment came on the heels of three single-vote decisions which rebuffed other key amendments earlier this week.

Then the Legislature rejected, on a 16-25 vote, Sen. Clifton Batchelder's bid to remove all enforcement provisions from the bill and leave jurisdiction to the courts.

Batchelder's first attempt with such an amendment failed Wednesday on a 23-24 vote, but some legislative minds were apparently changed overnight.

Provide Option

Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha won 23-15 assent for an amendment which will provide aggrieved citizens with the option of seeking relief from their county attorney.

The administration of the law would be assigned to a new Equal Opportunity Commission, created by enlarging and reconstituting, the present Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Only senators who voted against advancing the bill, LB718, were Batchelder, Sen. Bill Bloom of Omaha, Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, and Whitney.

Major Debate

The major debate Thursday centered on the substitute proposal to provide for enforcement by county attorneys.

At issue, Whitney suggested, was the question of "confidence in our present law enforcement officials" to justly administer the law at the local level.

But opponents of the proposal said county attorneys, in too many cases, would not act upon the complaint of citizens who alleged discrimination in housing.

The most impassioned argument came from Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha.

"Give us an effective law or nothing at all," he declared.

Failed To Act

Danner said Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas failed to act on his own complaint a few years ago that he was refused service in a Lincoln cafe. Danner is black.

Discrimination does exist in Nebraska as well as Alabama, the senator said. "And if telling the truth is going to lose the bill, then it should be lost," he insisted.

"We black people serve in the armed forces and pay taxes. We are tired of half a loaf. We want a full meal or none at all."

LB718 would prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of housing with minor exceptions. The primary exemption is for persons who rent less than five sleeping rooms in their own home.

The vote on Batchelder's amendment to eliminate the proposed commission as administrative and enforcement agency:

For: Adamson, Batchelder, Bloom, Carpenter, Clark, Holmquist, Klaver, Kremer, Nore, Proud, Reynolds, Robinson, Skarda, Whitney, Wiltse, Wylie.

Not Voting: Burbach, Craft, Kennedy, Kokes, Mahoney, Schmit, Wentzlaff, Ziebarth.

Force Fails To Obtain Ends

Washington (UPI) — A task force of the National Commission on Violence said Thursday that force and violence have only rarely changed the nation's course and, instead, have often stiffened resistance and impeded reform.

One year after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the task force made public a 350,000-word report of its study of American history for clues to the reason why much violence exists in this country. It said it did not know whether assassinations have now become a permanent fact of American political life.

"Whether the current spate of public murder is an endemic symptom of a new social malaise," it said, "is a crucial question that history cannot yet answer, other than to observe that precedents in our past are minimal."

Even though "Americans have always been a violent people," the task force said, nothing in American history was found to compare with the current wave of campus uprisings and prolonged opposition to the Vietnam war.

"Contemporary antiwar protest is unprecedented both in scope and magnitude, as is university unrest and the chilling recent contagion of political murders of national leaders," it said.

But Americans were even more violent in the past, it said.

They now are "probably less violent in total magnitude of civil strife than in the latter 19th century, when the turmoil of reconstruction was followed by massive racial and labor violence," it said.

Yet, violence — either by street demonstrators or by the government through the use of troops — has rarely accomplished its long-run aim, the report said.

"The evidence supports one basic principle: Force and violence can be successful techniques of social control and persuasion when they have extensive popular support. If they do not, their advocacy and use are ultimately self-destructive, either as techniques of government or opposition," it said.

New York Times News Summary

U.S. 'Not Wedded' To Any Viet Government

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the administration is "not wedded to any government in Saigon." The only thing the U.S. government is adamant about is the process of free choice and it would accept any government based on election victories, according to Rogers. (More on Page 2.)

Special Elections Acceptable

Saigon — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is reliably reported to be prepared to accept special elections in South Vietnam before the scheduled 1971 elections as a negotiated part of the settlement of the war. (More on Page 2.)

Better Latin Relations Promised

Washington — Conceding that there was "some discontent" in Latin America over United States policies, Secretary of State William P. Rogers pledged that the administration would do "all we can" to improve the situation. "There is no part of the world more important to us," he said.

Antistrike Laws Fought

London — Britain's labor unions, fighting against the nation's first antistrike laws, have given the Trades Union Congress unprecedented power to settle wildcat strikes. The unions warned the government, however, that if it did not drop its proposal to fine labor law violators, they would not implement their self-policing plan.

U.S., Spain To Sign

Washington — The United States is expected to sign an agreement with Spain in the next few days providing for a two-year continuation of military base rights in Spain in exchange for $50 million in arms. This agreement replaced a proposal for a five-year extension coupled with an additional year for withdrawal of U.S. forces.

Americans 'Bloody-Minded'

Washington — A group of scholars appointed by the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence reported that Americans have become a "rather bloody-minded people in both action and reaction." (More on Page 1.)

Missile Tests To Continue

Washington — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the administration will continue to test multiple warhead strategic missiles and that such tests were not relevant to the coming arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union. (More on Page 12.)

New Laws To Be Sought

Washington — A coalition of House Democrats and Republicans made plans to push for new legislation to deal with campus disorders. The proposal, subject to hours of compromising, would require schools to draft a code of conduct before institutions or students would be eligible for federal funds.

Case Moves To Force Issue

Washington — The Nixon administration came under attack from Republicans as Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, moved to force the issue in the missile defense fight. (More on Page 12.)

Front In Coalition Talks

World News

Paris (AP) — Despite the strong opposition of the Saigon government, the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front said Thursday it is opening consultations with other "goodwill" groups on forming a provisional coalition regime for South Vietnam.

This word came from the NLF spokesman, Tran Hoi Nam, after the 20th full-scale session of the Paris peace talks went through 4 hours and 25 minutes of fruitless debate and North Vietnam delivered one of its toughest attacks yet on the Nixon administration.

Without commenting on the repeated rejection of a coalition government by President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, Nam told newsmen in response to a question: "The contacts are starting."

Provision In 10 Points

He was referring to a provision in the NLF 10-point peace plan for consultations with so-called democratic and peace-loving groups to form an interim regime that would conduct elections and arrange for the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Nam said the consultations would take place both in South Vietnam with various peace groups and in Paris with Vietnamese exiles who are against the present government.

U.S. spokesman Harold Kaplan, asked to explain the American position on a coalition government, replied: "We accept whatever may proceed from negotiations between South Vietnamese. It is not for us to rule anything in or out."

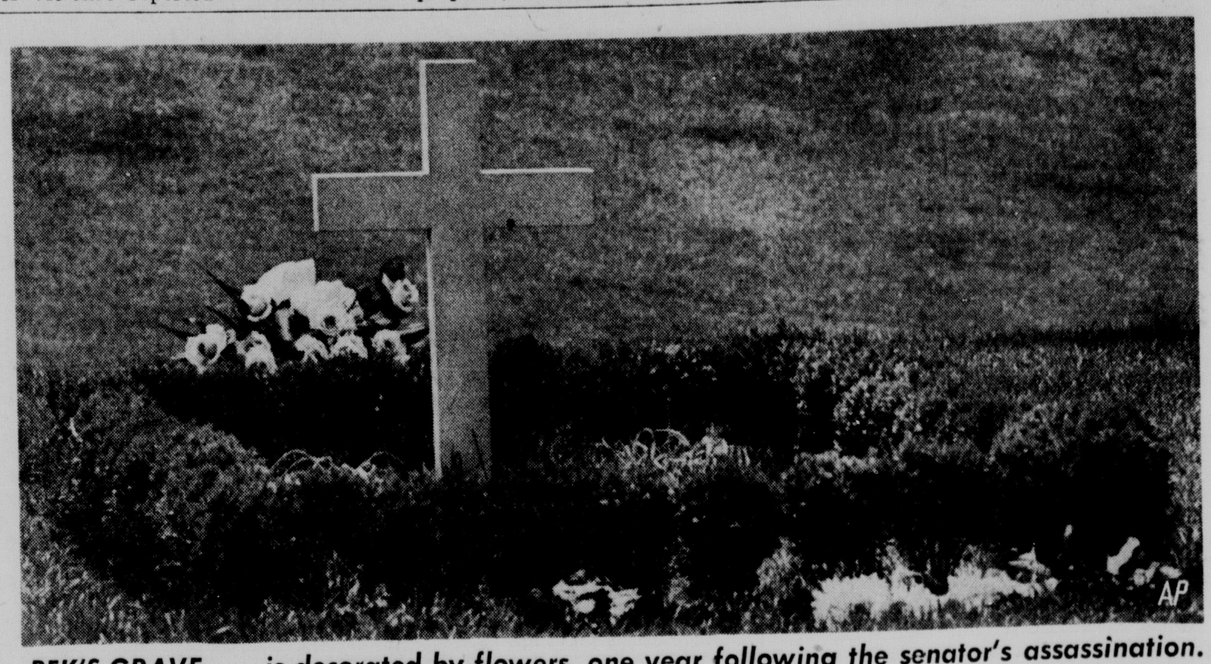

So far, however, the NLF has firmly refused to accept Thieu's offer for secret talks on a political settlement. The United States has insisted that no such settlement can be made without the participation and agreement of the Saigon government.

In the meeting, the NLF deputy representative, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, asserted that the United States so far had sought to evade any clear stand on a coalition government.

She said U.S. authorities "contradict themselves when, on the one hand, they say they respect the free choice of the South Vietnamese people, while on the other they continue to maintain the Thieu-Ky-Huong puppet administration." In addition to the president, she was referring to Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Tran Van Huong.

Both Mrs. Binh and North Vietnamese representative Ha Van Lau appeared to be aiming their anti-Nixon thrusts mainly at the American public.

There was no mention of next Sunday's meeting between President Nixon and Thieu on Midway Island in any of the formal statements.

RFK'S GRAVE . . . is decorated by flowers, one year following the senator's assassination.

RFK's Death To Be Marked By Folk Mass

Washington (AP)—A brief and simple folk mass at the gravesite in Arlington National Cemetery will mark the first anniversary Friday of the death of Robert F. Kennedy.

For his widow, Ethel Kennedy, it will mark the end of a year of mourning for her husband, who died of a gunshot wound in the brain in Los Angeles at the conclusion of his successful California primary campaign for the presidency.

Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York will officiate at the twilight mass at Kennedy's grave, which is marked only by a white cross and is a few yards from the grave of his brother, President John F. Kennedy.

At Mrs. Kennedy's request, a choral group of 70 high school students will sing folk songs to guitar accompaniment.

No eulogy or sermon is planned. After the mass, Mrs. Kennedy will be hostess for a buffet dinner for some 100 friends and members of the family at Hickory Hill, the Kennedy home in suburban McLean, Va.

If Chosen In Free Elections . . .

Reds Acceptable In Saigon Regime

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Thursday the presence of some Communists in the South Vietnamese government would be acceptable to the United States if they were chosen in a free election.

Rogers told a news conference the United States was not wedded to any government in Saigon but only to the principle that the people there "should have the right by free choice to decide their future."

He also said he would not oppose including the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Viet Cong, on some supervisory commission to insure that their candidates were given a fair deal in any balloting.

Rogers emphasized, however, that the United States firmly supported South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in his opposition to the Communist proposals for a coalition government in Saigon before or in place of elections.

"The phrase coalition government', as used by the Communists, would be unacceptable because it is used to convey the thought that they will impose certain of their leaders on the people of South Vietnam," Rogers said.

While keeping his lines clear with Thieu by opposing any coalition government, Rogers went farther than any top official has yet in public in trying to offer attractive terms to the NLF.

Rogers' news conference came just one week after his return from a round-the-world trip during which he spent most of his time in Southeast Asia.

Rogers said he found that the training of the South Vietnamese army to take over more war responsibility has been progressing rapidly and indicated an announcement regarding the withdrawal of some U.S. forces might be forthcoming in the near future.

Thieu Could Agree To Special Elections

. . . As Part Of Settlement

© New York Times Service

By TERENCE SMITH

Saigon — President Nguyen Van Thieu is reliably reported to be prepared to accept special elections in South Vietnam as part of a negotiated settlement of the war.

Thieu has privately advised Western diplomats and South Vietnamese political figures that he could agree to special elections before the next nationwide balloting — scheduled for 1971 — if such elections are a prerequisite to peace.

Special elections are one of the major demands set out by the Viet Cong in the 10-point bargaining position presented at the Paris talks May 8. He has already agreed that the Viet Cong could participate as a party in national elections.

Would Consider Panel

Thieu is also understood to be willing to consider the formation of a joint electoral commission that would include representatives of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, to supervise the elections.

The Saigon government reportedly regards such a commission as an acceptable alternative to the Viet Cong's demand for an interim coalition government, which Thieu opposes.

However, the government would insist on playing the major role on any such commission, according to South Vietnamese sources, and would demand that Viet Cong representation be kept to a minority.

The sources said the commission would operate under guidelines agreed to in Paris by both parties, but under the general supervision of the Saigon interior ministry. Most observers here believe the Viet Cong would reject any such a restriction.

Commission's Job

As Thieu's advisers view it, the job of the commission would be to write a new set of electoral laws, set a date for the elections and supervise the balloting. The belief is that this could be done within the framework of the present South Vietnamese constitution, or with only minor amendments.

Thieu is also said to be willing to agree to the formulation of an international supervisory body that would oversee and guarantee all the provisions of a peace settlement, including the withdrawal of foreign troops.

Such a body, in the South Vietnamese view, could provide over-all supervision of the joint electoral commission and provide additional guarantees that the special elections would be conducted according to the procedures agreed upon in Paris.

261 Americans Killed In Vietnam

Saigon (AP) — The U.S. Command reported Thursday that 261 Americans were killed in action and 1,810 wounded in the week ended last Saturday. The figures for the week before were 265 killed and 1,863 wounded.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also dropped, but much more sharply. South Vietnamese headquarters said 325 government troops were killed and 1,021 wounded, compared with 413 killed and 1,604 wounded the week before.

The two commands said 2,637 enemy were killed last week, down from 4,087 the week before.

The 300-hp V8 provides 25 more horsepower for 40 less dollars than last year's most comparable extra-cost V8. Turbo Hydra-matic costs less (likewise, Powerglide automatic transmission).

Power disc brakes are about half the price they were last year. Whitewalls are a little less. Wheel covers, about the same. Head restraints are now standard.

Fish Farming Is New Frontier

. . . In Agriculture, Says Wiegers

Nebraska farmers with an interest in fish and good quantities of fresh water may want to investigate the possibilities of catfish farming.

Howard Wiegers, professor of poultry science and wildlife specialist at the University of Nebraska, says that catfish farming is developing into a new "agricultural frontier."

HOWARD WIEGERS Describes Industry

Fish farming is not much different from ranching if a pond of water is thought of as a pasture, Wiegers points out.

Although fish culture is relatively new in the United States, the Chinese practiced it as early as 500 B.C.

"Fish farmers in southeastern U.S. may have a climatic advantage over Nebraskans because of a longer growing season," he said. "But the idea is catching on in Kansas and southern Nebraska."

Economic Aspect

The economic aspect of fish farming is especially promising, according to Wiegers. In Arkansas 10,000 acres of fish paid $4 million. Fifteen tons of catfish are purchased each week in Georgia by restaurant owners and fish buyers. Modern fish processing plants are being developed to process 30 tons of fish per week, he said.

"Further business is stimulated by the need for fish food, soybean oil meal and peanut cake," Wiegers added. "For each million pounds of catfish commercially produced, almost 15,000 bushels of soybeans and 700 tons of peanuts are required."

Wiegers continued, "as more high quality fresh fish reach the market, public acceptance and demand continue to increase. The result will surely be a lessening of consumption of other similar foods such as poultry and red meats."

Farm Price Index Rises

The Nebraska all farm commodity price index rose 26 points to 319 during the month ending May 15, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

The index was 46 points above the index a year ago and was at the highest point since August, 1952.

Wheat was up one cent to $1.17 a bushel, but down 12 cents from a year ago. Corn was up three cents from a year ago to $1.17 a bushel.

Hogs, beef cattle, calves and sheep showed an across-the-board increase in excess of $5 for the year.

Chicken and eggs showed a loss from the previous month, but a gain in the year's interim.

Summary of Conditions

A cold front from Canada will be along a line from the southern portion of Lake Michigan and westward along the southern border of Iowa and into the northwest corner of the Nebraska Panhandle Friday morning. The front will move southward into northern Missouri and northern Kansas Friday where it will become stationary through Saturday.

A narrow band of showers and thunderstorms will develop on the front as it moves southward and continue along the front as it becomes stationary. Skies will be variably cloudy over the area through Friday with some clearing from the north Saturday. Temperatures will continue warm ahead of the front with some cooling in the area after the front passes.

Extended Forecasts

NEBRASKA: Temperatures for the five-day period, Saturday through Wednesday, are forecast to average near normal in the central and 3 to 5 degrees below normal in the east. Definite Goal, Date Urged For Youths

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

An inspiring message on having a goal and a date to accomplish that goal by former Miss America Marilyn Van Derbur brought a standing ovation from more than 300 4-H club members attending the 53rd annual state 4-H Club Week here Thursday.

"Is it luck, natural talent that determines success and a winner? No, it is work, desire and having a definite goal that you want to accomplish at a definite date that determines success," said Miss Van Derbur.

The former Miss America who has been hostess for the Miss America pageant for five years and hostess for the nationwide television Thanksgiving and Cotton Bowl parades told Nebraska 4-H members "you can do anything you want to do, be anything you want to be. Success or failure does not depend upon looks, luck or talent, but upon desire, purpose and personal dedication."

Miss Van Derbur cited the hardships overcome by desire and determination by President Lincoln, Helen Keller and sports figures and also told about her efforts toward developing a talent program for the Miss America pageant.

"For four months, four hours every day I practiced the organ on one piece, Tea for Two and Tenderly," said Miss Van Derbur.

She said that one can do much more than one thinks he can if one is committed and cannot back out.

Her example was her first appearance after being named Miss America, recognized as a great organist who only knew one piece, and being invited on the spur of the moment to play an unfamiliar song on the Steve Allen show.

Miss Van Derbur said she made it through the duet with Steve Allen and she reminded Nebraska youth, "Sometimes we are afraid to do something because we are afraid we will fail but when you say no then you miss the mountain top experience that comes when you stick and dare to accomplish your goals."

Miss Van Derbur now lives in Denver and as a United Airlines youth speaker plans to address more than 75,000 high school and college students this year.

Observers at the session addressed by Miss Van Derbur said, "Never before have we heard more applause in the Center auditorium."

Plane Crash Kills Penry, NU Student

Lincoln Star Special

Hebron — Funeral services for John Jay Penry, 20-year-old University of Nebraska student, will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Methodist Church in Hebron.

He died Wednesday evening near Carleton in the crash of a light, crop-spraying plane he was piloting, according to Thayer County Sheriff Jim Johnson.

Stalled In Turn

The sheriff said the plane apparently stalled in a turn and crashed and burned. The craft landed in a plowed field a mile southeast of Carleton, Johnson stated.

Young Penry was flying for the Osher Flying Service of Hebron who owned the plane.

Federal aviation authorities were on the scene Thursday investigating the crash.

The young pilot had just completed his second year at NU. He was a 1967 Hebron High School graduate and had attended Wentworth Military Academy.

A member of the Aircraft Operators and Pilots Association, he was also a member of the Wentworth Military Academy alumni and honor guard and the First Methodist Church of Hebron.

Surviving are his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Penry of Hebron; sisters, Deborah Ann of Hebron and Mrs. Kandis Lynn Hegstrom of Albion; and grandmother, Mrs. Rose Lynn of Ohiowa.

Tractor Mishap Kills Driver, 59

Laurel (AP) — Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Catholic Church here Saturday morning for Leo Reifenrenath, 59, of Laurel, who was killed Wednesday in a tractor accident.

Authorities said the tractor Reifenrenath was operating along a county road apparently overturned on a steep incline crushing him beneath it.

Survivors include his wife, mother, a sister and four brothers.

Solons Express Their Sympathy To Ernest Sages

The State Legislature Thursday formally expressed "its deepest sympathy" to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sage of Niobrara whose three sons were reported missing from the USS Evans which collided at sea with the Australian carrier Melbourne.

The legislators stood in a moment of silence in honor of the missing Navy men — Gary, Gregory and Kelly Sage — after passing the resolution, No. 55, unanimously.

Meanwhile, services for the three brothers have been definitely scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the high school gymnasium in Niobrara.

The Sages' minister, the Rev. Charles Lindgren, pastor of the Lutheran Church in Niobrara, will be in charge of the services, assisted by a Navy chaplain.

Sgt. Van Andel's Rites Saturday

Norfolk (AP) — Funeral services for Army Sgt. Claude Van Andel, 19, will be held at Christ Lutheran Church in Norfolk at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Sgt. Van Andel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Andel, was killed in action May 27 in Vietnam.

He has previously been hospitalized twice during his year in the battle area — once with malaria and once with shrapnel wounds.

Besides his parents he is survived by a sister and his four grandparents.

2 More Die In Crashes

From Press Reports

Two more Nebraskans have lost their lives in traffic accidents. The latest victims:

Teresa Maria Johnson, six months old, Beatrice.

Mrs. Frank Uridil, 82, Platte Center.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Johnson of rural Beatrice, the baby was killed in a car-truck accident on a county road one mile northwest of Beatrice late Thursday afternoon.

She was a passenger in the car driven by her father which struck the rear of a loaded gravel truck. The truck, driven by Lloyd F. Warren, 23, of Beatrice, had reportedly slowed down.

Gage County Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr. said it appeared dust was raised by the truck and this blinded Johnson's vision.

Other passengers in the car were Johnson's wife, Judy, 20, and another daughter, Pamela Jo, 2. Johnson, his wife and Pamela Jo were admitted to a Beatrice hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Uridil died in a Columbus hospital Wednesday night of injuries suffered several hours earlier in a two-car accident.

The auto in which she was riding with her husband Frank, 82, was in collision on U.S. 81 about one mile east of Platte Center with a car driven by Melvin Borman, 43, of Anaheim, Calif.

Reported in good condition at a Columbus hospital were Uridil and two passengers in the Borman car, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prior, both 76, of Santa Ana, Calif.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A significant point in the administration of President Richard M. Nixon might have been reached this week. This is the week in which the President delivered his hardest hitting foreign affairs speech since taking the oath of office and it is the week in which Senate critics opened fire on him.

Senator Ted Kennedy had already opened fire last week but not in the Senate. This week, Senators Mike Mansfield and Gaylord Nelson took strong offense to the speech given by the President to the graduates of the Air Force Academy.

In his remarks, Nixon criticized "new isolationists" and those who preach conciliation through "unilateral arms reduction." Both Mansfield and Nelson assumed the President was lashing out at critics of the proposed IBM system and the Vietnam War.

The President, of course, was not that specific in his remarks. Who he meant by isolationists and what constitutes unilateral reduction he did not say. Certainly, he did not refer specifically to either the ABM system or Vietnam.

The President, in fact, noted that he accepts and encourages healthy debate of foreign policy and justified criticism of military spending. And he expressed his faith in the establishment of policy through civilian rather than military channels.

Thus, when it comes to specifics it is pretty tough to draw firm conclusions. But whatever are the intentions of the words that have been uttered, it is apparent that Nixon is entering a period of confrontation on the domestic political scene.

Where, in all of this does the individual stand? What kind of thoughts are prompted by the exchange of words between the President in his speech and the Democratic senators?

★

The New York Times News Service carried this brief analysis of Nixon's speech:

"Its fundamental assumptions and central themes — that a worldwide American presence is necessary for global stability, and that peace flows not from weakness but from strength — have been basic to U.S. foreign and military policy for more than two decades.

"Such assumptions are now being questioned among the young and, to an increasing extent, in Congress."

That, in our minds, still is the essence of things and the real meaning of the current flap between the President and his critics.

It is on that basic point of foreign policy that everyone has to make his decision. To adhere to that policy, it must be remembered, does not mean that we do not pursue every means of peace and international agreement that is open to us.

★

To put it simply, we might proceed with a thin ABM system while still seeking with the Soviet Union an agreement on limitation of the armed race, including even nuclear disarmament and control of both offense and defensive missiles.

It becomes more difficult, however, to simplify the case of those who have a different approach to the matter. The case argued by Mansfield, Kennedy and Nelson, for instance, defies simplification by us, at least, as we have never seen or heard of its specifics.

We clearly recognize in the Nixon speech the danger of relying too heavily on old cold war concepts and we hope that this is not the essence of what he said. We do not believe that, in the end, peace can be won at the point of a gun.

There has to be a concerted effort to break the deadlock of military force and counterforce that takes place between the major powers of the world. But this must, for success, be a bilateral effort which, to date, does not seem to exist.

'Your Captain Speaking . . . This Latin American Goodwill Trip Is Hijacked . . . We've Been Ordered Back To New York!'

Cause For Concern

A third nation has now taken itself off the itinerary of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's multi-nation South American tour. In a fourth nation, the New York governor was forced to meet for only three hours at the airport with representatives of the host country.

And on their own, presidents of the Latin countries are now drafting a document for consideration by President Richard M. Nixon to improve trade and aid relations with the United States. The Rockefeller trip has clearly shown this nation the extent to which it has failed to make progress in meeting the needs of South America.

Many of the South American people are disillusioned, easy prey for the militant agitators who seek to fashion a new political and sociological order for the area. Thus, it has been no problem to stir up violent protest to the Rockefeller visit and, thereby negate the impact of the effort.

The sad state of affairs in Latin America is not totally of our own doing because the established governments there have failed, too, in bringing about the political, economic and social reforms that are essential and the resources development that must accompany a general, improved standard of living.

But we have clearly seen in the sorry visit by Rockefeller that a new and different effort is needed. It is incumbent upon President Nixon, to say the least, to look with vision and hope at the recommendations that come to him from his counterparts south of the border.

Revenue Split Questioned

Nebraska cities and towns should be prepared to take it on the chin from the Legislature again. From what can be gained from Revenue Committee action Wednesday, the cities will be treated unfairly revenue-wise just as they have in the past. The municipalities just can't seem to make a case for themselves.

The Revenue Committee sent to the floor a revised highway revenue distribution formula which would increase the recommended allocation to counties for four years beginning next year — at the expense of the cities. Other bills are being amended or about to be amended in committee that will further aid the counties at city expense.

The Legislature paid a healthy amount of money for a professional study which came up with what everybody suspected — based on their needs, the cities were not getting their fair share of the revenue. The consultants, noting the current sharing of highway revenue that gives about 53% to the state, 36% to the counties and some 11% to the cities, recommended a revenue split of 60% sharing for the state, 22% for the cities and 18% for the counties.

It's so much history that the Highway Study Committee reduced the impact on the counties of that recommended change by recommending a 53⅓% to the state and 23⅓% each to the cities and counties formula that was introduced. So, a compromise had already been reached

Now the Legislature, or at least the Revenue Committee, seems intent on further easing the pain of the counties by giving them a bigger percentage of highway revenues than the cities until 1974, when the equal split would become effective.

Most of the highway and street needs are in the cities and it will be more true in the future than today. Municipalities have never really gotten a fair break from Nebraska Legislatures and this Legislature should see that their needs are met, not covered up.

Rocky's Mission A Paradox

WASHINGTON — The failure of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's mission to Latin America is more serious than the headlines indicate, and the headlines have been pretty bad.

The situation is comparable to the closing days of the Eisenhower administration when Anti-American riots in Japan became so dangerous that President Eisenhower, then in Manila, had to cancel the remainder of his trip through the Far East.

Rockefeller, who for years has been a great hero in Latin America, has had to cancel his trip to Venezuela, a country where he has built supermarkets, and where he owns a hotel, a plantation and a home.

Rockefeller began winning friends in Latin America when he was first appointed coordinator for Latin American cultural and economic affairs by Franklin D. Roosevelt during the war. Later he became assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs under both Roosevelt and Truman and participated in writing the Treaty of Chapultepec, which bars communism from the Western Hemisphere. Yet he has now been disinvited from visiting the country in which he is considered an adopted citizen.

Inside reasons why the Rockefeller mission has been a failure are:

—President Nixon's speech on student riots in which he made slurring remarks regarding Latin American education, calling it "one of the most inferior systems of education anywhere in the world." This was bitterly resented by every Latin American university.

—President Nixon's speech on Pan American Day, April 14, struck a sour note. He kissed off the Alliance for Progress and gave no promise for further Pan American cooperation. Latin American, of course, remembered Nixon's own unfortunate experience when, as vice president, he was heckled at San Marcos University in Peru and nearly mobbed to death on the streets of Caracas, Venezuela.

—The military junta in Peru has been intensifying its anti-American propaganda throughout Latin America. Orders have gone out to every Peruvian embassy in South America to damn the USA as the imperialistic colossus of the north.

—The Nixon administration waited until April to appoint an assistant secretary for Latin American affairs. Meanwhile, no efforts were made to have Johnson specialists on Latin America continue. The new assistant secretary, Charles Meyer, has had experience with Sears Roebuck in Bogota and is described by Pan American diplomats as "simpatico." However, faced with the present bag of worms he appears to be lost.

—The White House let one of the ablest ambassadors to the Organization of the American States, Sol Linowitz, retire and hesitated a long time in finding a replacement. Today it has drafted four ambassadors to replace him: Joseph John Jova, the top ambassador; Henry Latto, deputy ambassador, the son-in-law of Oveto Culp Hobby, Ike's secretary of HEW; a new ambassador yet to be appointed to the cultural council; another new ambassador to be appointed to the economic council.

Today the Nixon administration is being compared with Kennedy's and Johnson's. Kennedy received a tumultuous welcome in Caracas and Bogota — in contrast to the ugly mob which greeted Nixon. And President Johnson received an equally tumultuous welcome in Mexico City.

Since Mexico has been our severest critic in the past, the cordial relations between Johnson and President Diaz Ordaz had considerable impact on the rest of the Americas. Diaz Ordaz made personal trips up to the LBJ ranch and LBJ met him more than once on Mexican soil.

North Americans sometimes accused LBJ of being a Texas cornball; but Latin Americans appreciate a certain amount of warmth and corn. When he flew to Uruguay for a meeting with all the Pan American presidents, he remembered their names, knew the problems of each coutry, made a profound impression.

Troop Withdrawal Might Backfire

WASHINGTON — Presidents Nixon and Thieu will have a lot to discuss at Midway besides American troop withdrawals from Vietnam. The State Department insists that Thieu's bristling statements in South Korea and Taiwan represent no real retreat from his acceptance of Nixon's eight-point negotiating proposals, and the South Vietnamese president may indeed have been speaking primarily for public consumption; undoubtedly he is feeling pressure from those considerable forces in South Vietnam opposed to any negotiations with the communists.

Nevertheless, Nixon will have little choice but to make sure he and Thieu are still working to the same general purpose; and that means a review of the stated negotiating position and all its elements, including the key question of elections to determine South Vietnam's political future. Under these circumstances, American withdrawal can only be one topic for discussion — but an important one.

Thieu may bring with him to Midway reflections of an attitude expressed at a high level in Saigon shortly after Nixon laid down his eight points May 14. Some leading figures in the Thieu government thought then that Hanoi might accept the proposal for "mutual withdrawal" of American and North Vietnamese troops — although the presence of the latter has never been conceded by Hanoi or the National Liberation Front.

But since Nixon's speech made it clear that he would entertain the idea of another tacit, informal agreement like the one last fall that ended the bombing of the north and brought Saigon and the front into the Paris talks, it was suggested in Saigon that that pattern might be followed by Hanoi on the troop issue, too.

The reasoning was that mutual withdrawal, even if not formally agreed on, would provide a means whereby Hanoi and the front could be assured that American troops actually were being withdrawn, in which case they would be most unlikely never to return, while North Vietnamese troops could merely be pulled back across convenient borders and held ready to return if a need arose.

Whether or not this or some other form of "mutual withdrawal" is ultimately arranged, there is little doubt that the Nixon administration will begin withdrawing American troops this year; the two presidents may even announce this plan at Midway. For both of them, it probably has much to recommend it.

For Nixon, withdrawing combat troops, while leaving behind important support elements that the South Vietnamese cannot replace, would have the human and political virtue of reducing the American casualty lists. It would undoubtedly mollify much of the anti-war criticism that must be starting to concern him.

For Thieu, "troop replacement," as the plan is euphemistically known in Saigon, is a political plus that makes his regime appear less an American puppet, more an effective and independent government. And if cleverly phased and paced slowly enough, it probably would not weaken Saigon's military position unacceptably. To the extent that the plan eased anti-war pressures on Nixon, Saigon again would be the primary beneficiary.

It is at least possible, moreover, that a beginning on "troop replacement" would spur Hanoi into greater interest in "mutual withdrawal" or some other move toward peace. Some high officials in both Washington and Saigon argue that Hanoi is counting on anti-war sentiment in the United States to provide it a negotiated victory, and therefore does not want American troops withdrawn except as part of an over-all settlement.

That may be correct; but the trouble with it is that it suggests the darker possibility inherent in "troop replacement." If the beginning of the program did not push Hanoi toward a settlement, the plain implication is that once enough Americans had been withdrawn to pare down the casualty lists and take some pressure off Nixon, a quarter-million or so Americans would remain to support South Vietnam in indefinite continuance of the war.

Season To Pick On The Pentagon

It's a "pick on the Pentagon" season, folks, and by now any other outfit would have hired a high-powered public relations man to do the job that got away from the hundreds of press agents in uniform.

We have here a separate little war-within-a-war between Congress and the taxpayers and the beribboned, bestarred, and currently befuddled military mights who reign in that five-winged complex across the Potomac.

The men who hand out the money and who, until just recently, would give the military masterminds anything they asked for, are taking another look at the $80 billion tab the Pentagon turned in for this year.

Their report, the "Economics of Military Procurement," blasted the Pentagon as "wasteful, inefficient, sloppy, lacking in judgment," and maybe not even altogether truthful.

That started the war. On one side is powerful Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee. He's always been gung-ho for the Pentagon no matter what it does and never mind that talk about "waste."

On the other side is Sen. Wililam Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, who thinks it's high time Congress kept a closer eye on those gentlemen across the river.

He thinks the defense budget can be cut by at least $10 billion without giving our enemies any kind of an edge.

☆ ☆ ☆

The 31-page report had a few things to say about military bumbling, too, and it looks like the Pentagon has itself to blame for the sudden, unwelcome attention.

Among other things, it detailed the whole pitiful story of a billion dollars worth of tanks that won't work, $875 million in helicopters that won't fly, and $400 million in jeeps that tip over and, in 1967 alone, killed 104 soldiers and injured 8,858.

Pentagon critics thought they saw a pattern in these miscalculations, not too different from the way the Pentagon tried to double-talk its way out of admitting we really had been testing nerve gas in the Utah pasture where 6,000 sheep died last year.

Then the military confessed to paying the owners $66 a carcass for sheep worth about $32 on the market and that didn't increase Congress' faith in the Pentagon, you can bet.

The Heart Transplant: Life Was A Long Smile For Young Florida Couple Until Tragedy Hit

Everything was right for Nick. Life was a long smile. He had a house with a fat mortgage; a tall blonde wife named Nancy who thought he was the greatest man in the world; he had Vicky, aged twelve, growing up as stately as her mother; then there was that healthy running jumping terror of the schoolyard, James Robert Nickerson, eight years of age — and Nick himself was a sergeant of police working in Perrine, Florida, at $10,800 a year.

Nick was 35; 6 feet 2 inches lean; ruddy face and black hair; easy-moving, modest, a sweet-talking cop who couldn't be tough unless he was goaded. Everything was right for Sergeant Nickerson. The right job; the right woman; the right children.

Under the tall modesty of the man he not only loved the serene blondeness of Nancy; he admired her for having the things he didn't. She was outgoing. She bowled with him and sometimes beat him. She worked as a volunteer at the John Knight Children's Center for Retarded Children. She brought in $50 a week extra by working as a barmaid at the Purple Onion Club.

Maybe it was too good. Too smooth; too sweet. Some couples become alarmed when the road is smooth over a long period of time. Sergeant Nickerson felt no alarm. Nancy felt no elation — this is the way it was meant to be. In the middle of March she was behind the bar at the Purple Onion and she picked up a small can full of empties and fainted.

Nick said he would call the family physician. No, Nancy said. It was just one long lousy headache. A week later, she was in the kitchen at 2 a.m. and fell. Nick no longer listened to Nancy. He phoned Dr. Allan De Olazzaro. "Nick," the doctor said, "take her to Variety Children's Hospital and I'll meet you there."

The big attractive girl — just 29 — thought that everyone was making a fuss about nothing. Two doctors — Albert Ehlert and E. Murley — worked up an assortment of tests. It wasn't polio. It wasn't a cerebral hemorrhage. It wasn't a brain growth. Nancy looked drowsy. It wasn't heart.

Nick sat at the bedside wringing his kunckles. He knew all the things it wasn't, but what was it? Nancy was sent to Baptist Hospital. There a brain tracing was done. Two arms were punctured with a substance and the doctors watched the flight through the arteries, up behind the shoulders, and climbing the neck into the brain, and then the rapid crisscross of the lighted substance through the scenic railway of the mind.

It looked like colored beads racing through spaghetti. Suddenly both lights seemed to fall into a lake. The doctors tried the test again. Nancy had an artery with a weakened wall which, like a blister on the inner tube of a tire, was stretching like bubble gum from a boy's mouth. "She has an aneurism, Nick," a doctor said. "We got to go now."

"What's an aneurism?" Nick said. The doctor drew a diagram. "We're going into the brain and we're going to cut in and clamp off that weakened artery." No one had to tell Sergeant Jim Nickerson that this was going to be a delicate job for several doctors and God. He insisted that he be permitted to explain it, delicately and lovingly, to Nancy.

☆ ☆ ☆

Her blonde hair was a long pale flame on a white pillow. He told her. She told him, holding his big hand in hers, that she was in such pain that the doctors could start right away. Nick said no. He wanted to bring his little girl and his son Jimbo to see mother first. Jimbo, at age eight, was too young to be allowed in Baptist Hospital. His dad sneaked him in and Nancy came up off the pillow and hugged them tight.

The children were waxen with fright. She smothered them to her breast and said: "It's nothing. Be good until I get home." They promised. Nick took them home and visited a church

He would not weep. Nor did Nancy. In a short while, only one of them would be capable of tears . . .

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"And I say you're going to college — we need the scholarship money."

'Key' Highway Measure Gets Committee's OK

By United Press International

The bill considered the "key" measure in the landmark package of highway bills introduced in the Legislature this session was sent to the floor of the Legislature Thursday by the Public Works Committee.

The bill, LB1302, advanced on a 5-3 vote, has been locked in the committee for nearly two months as members worked and then reworked it in an attempt to reach a consensus.

It would set up a classification system for every one of the 103,000 miles of public highways, roads and streets in the state.

The bill's chief sponsor is Speaker Jerome Warner of Waverly. Warner, in speaking about the bill, has said "we've got to have that if we're going to have anything else."

Before sending the bill to the floor, the committee changed, for the second time, the makeup of the board which would oversee the classification program.

The board originally would have had nine members and then was amended to 11 members. The committee Thursday amended it to 10 members.

Three of the members would come from counties, three would come from cities, two would come from the Roads Department and two would be lay people representing different geographical areas.

The committee also inserted in the bill a provision which would put the State Roads Department under the same requirements as counties and cities as far as filing reports on their construction plans and condition of present roads and streets.

The committee also reported out a second bill which would establish a board of examiners to license county highway and city street superintendents.

The bill is a combination of two bills introduced as part of the highway bill package. Originally, one board would have been established to examine county highway superintendents and another would have examined city street superintendents.

The board of examiners would consist of seven members appointed by the governor, with four of them being county representatives and three of them city representatives.

Would Lose Funds

If a county or city street superintendent were not licensed by the board after a series of deadlines set up in the bill, the county or city for which he worked would lose part of its state highway funding.

The classification bill had been locked in the committee since a public hearing on it was held in April.

Under it, all governmental subdivisions must file reports with the Board of Classifications and Standards it creates on the status of their highways and on plans they have for the future.

Any county or city filing a false report would lose 10% of its state road money. A provision in the original bill which would have provided the same penalty for subdivisions which construct substandard roads has been deleted from the bill.

Legislators Pass Nine Bills

By Associated Press

Nine non-controversial bills sailed through final passage without a dissenting vote in the Legislature Thursday.

Among them was Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter's LB1283, which makes it a felony to use telephone credit cards fraudulently if the amount involved over a six-month period is $150.

Bills passed with vote (E-emergency clause):

LB412 (Orme, Simpson, Swanson, Warner, Knight) — Authorizing cities and villages with comprehensive zoning ordinances to require street dedication. 40-0.

LB720 (Pedersen)—Authorizing municipal courts to use tape recordings to preserve testimony. 44-0.

LB750 (Robinson, Wylie) — Changing the authority of county surveyor in certain duties. 43-0.

LB937 (Carstens) — Establishing a uniform choice of forum act related to civil court procedure. 44-0.

LB1030 (Elrod, Robinson) — Requiring all counties to keep watercourses clean and free of obstruction instead of only counties with 200,000 or more population. 43-0.

LB1076 (Schreurs) — Revising which personal possessions shall be exempt from attachment, execution or sale by courts. 43-0.

LB1102 (At request of governor, by Judiciary Committee) — Revising business corporation law related to language and fees. 43.0.

LB1283 (Carpenter) — Making it a felony to use credit cards fraudulently for telephone calls when amount involved totals $150 or more in a six-month period. 44-0.

LB1373 (Urban Affairs) — Increasing from five to six per cent the interest rate on general obligation bonds issued by the city of Lincoln. (E) 42-0.

Road Bond Group Agrees To Hire Financial Adviser

By Associated Press

The Highway Bond Commission Thursday generally agreed to hire a financial consultant to advise the commission when it comes time to issue highway revenue bonds.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann said the commission would hold an open meeting later in the summer to hear from firms and persons interested in the position.

Although no definite conclusion was reached, the commission indicated that the first issuance, perhaps in August, might involve only about $5 million of the total $30 million in bonds authorized by the Legislature recently for two years.

$5 Million Highway Revenue Bill Is Advanced

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Revenue Committee Thursday sent to the floor a $5 million highway revenue bill increasing motor vehicle registration fees, and a revised proposal establishing state aid for police and fire salaries.

Also dispatched from committee were amended highway bills providing for the exchange of state revenue between cities and counties.

Killed, on a 5-3 vote, was LB83, a measure which would have more than tripled the gross premium tax on domestic insurance companies.

LB1304, the highway revenue proposal, would increase automobile registration fees from $9 to $15.50 a year and boost fees for farm trucks and local trucks.

The fee hikes would increase highway user revenue by more than $5 million a year, including $4 million from car licenses alone.

Previously approved by the committee were bills which would raise an additional $6.7 million a year from increases in motor fuel taxes and some $11 million in state general fund money during the coming biennium.

LB1304 won 7-0 committee approval.

The police-fire assistance bill, LB1261, gained 5-2 assent after considerable amendment. While the bill originally would have provided state financing through the parimuteul tax, it now proposes the use of state general fund cash.

State Aid

The state would provide $25 a month to each municipality and county for every full-time law enforcement officer and fireman, and establish minmum salaries for those officials.

Cost of state aid was pegged at an estimated $810,000 a year. In addition, the bill would appropriate $100,000 a year to the state fire marshal for the improvement of volunteer fire departments.

The minimum monthly salary scale for firemen and policemen would be established at $600 in Omaha and Lincoln, $500 in first class cities, $450 in second class cities and villages, $600 in Douglas and Lancaster Counties, $500 in other counties of more than 9,000 population, $450 in counties of 9,000 or less.

Road Funds

Sent to the floor without opposition votes were two revised bills to distribute highway funds among cities and counties.

LB1312 provides that counties would receive the first 50% of their state funds without matching requirements, but would need to match the remaining 50% on a dollar for dollar basis.

Unused funds would be made available first to municipalities within the county before being turned back to the county subdivision fund.

LB1314 provides that municipalities would receive the first one-third of their state funds without matching requirements. They would need to match the next one-third on a dollar for dollar basis, and would receive the final one-third by matching half the state dollars.

Unused Portion

Unused funds would be made available first to the county within which the municipality was located to be used on road construction agreed to by the city and the county.

Cities would also be empowered to relinquish funds to the county for accumulation over a three-year period for later use on specific road projects.

The redistribution formula for LB1314, one intended to provide counties with additional funds from small town allocations, was accepted on a 5-1 vote.

LB504, providing for a number of changes in the sales tax law, including the taxation of charges for bowling and golf, was advanced on an 8-0 count.

The committee split 4-4 on LB589, a measure proposing to exempt farm machinery from the sales tax.

Senators Override 'Defense Bill' Veto

votes to override the chair," Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha said in challenging Everroad.

"But this is getting to be a political fight, and we're not following the rules chairman."

Everroad protested that he had "no personal opinion" on the bill.

First Loss

The second motion to override then prevailed. It marked the first time Tiemann has lost a veto since he became governor in 1967.

The bill, LB925, authorizes citizens to use "any means necessary" to protect themselves or their property, or to protect others from felonious assault.

The governing sentence provides:

"No person in this state shall be placed in legal jeopardy of any kind whatsoever for protecting, by any means necessary, himself, his family, or his real or personal property, or when coming to the aid of another who is in imminent danger of or the victim of aggravated assault, armed robbery, holdup, rape, murder, or any other heinous crime."

'Vigilante Law'

In vetoing the bill, Tiemann said it implements "a system of vigilante law enforcement" in Nebraska, one which may increase the level of violence and "escalate the breakdown of law and order."

Tiemann told newsmen Thursday he stands by that statement. "Instead of more protection, citizens, in fact, will have less," the governor said.

Asked to respond to Proud's comments about political motives, Tiemann said: "I don't know, but it seems to be a logical assumption that they are playing politics."

No Nerve

Proud told his colleagues that "it takes no nerve to pass a bill like this, because the public applauds it. What takes nerve is to veto it."

Batchelder said the sole question involved in passing the bill is "whether we trust the decent law-abiding citizens of this state with this authority."

With a law which specifically assures citizens of the right of self-defense, they can "help us straighten out the mess in this country," Batchelder said. Law has been undermined, he said, by "pettyfogging legal beagles (and their) nitpicking and histrionics."

Ever since Illinois Sen. Charles Percy's daughter was killed in her own room, Batchelder said, he has "kept a shotgun in my bedroom . . . and I would use it law or no law, nitpicking lawyers or not."

'Let Hoodlums Know'

There are "not enough policemen to go around," he said. "Let every hoodlum know there is such a law (and) that every citizen is a potential enemy."

Opponents said the bill is dangerous.

"It will promote crime," Proud argued, "It gives every criminal the right to a good defense."

It permits a citizen "on any supposition whatsoever to kill someone," Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha said.

The vote to override:

For: Adamson, Batchelder, Bloom, Budd, Burbach, Carpenter, Carstens, Clark, Duis, Harsh, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Keyes, Klaver, Kokes, Mahoney, Marvel, Nore, Reynolds, Robinson, Schmit, Skarda, Stull, Swanson, Syas, Waldo, Wallwey, Whitney, Wiltse, Wylie.

Against: Danner, Elrod, Johnson, Knight, Kremer, Luedtke, Moulton, Moylan, Orme, Pedersen, Proud, Schreurs, Simpson, Waldron, Warner, Wenzlaff.

Not Voting: Craft, Kennedy, Ziebarth.

Gov. Tiemann Tells Patrol How To Handle Legislators

Gov. Norbert Tiemann Thursday instructed the Nebraska State Patrol to ticket any state senator who violates a law for prosecution 15 days after the 1969 Legislature adjourns.

Senatorial immunity from arrest ends on that date.

The state constitution provides immunity from arrest while the Legislature is in session, and for a period of 15 days preceding and 15 days following the session.

Exceptions are written into the constitution for cases involving treason, felony or breach of the peace.

Most immediately involved by the directive are Sens. William Skarda and Eugene Mahoney, both of Omaha, who were stopped by Patrolman Tom Roth for alleged speeding on Interstate 80 last month. Skarda was the driver.

Roth has filed a report in which he stated that the car was clocked at 85.7 miles per hour (the speed limit is 75 mph), and he said the senators subjected him to verbal abuse. No tickets were issued at the time.

Both senators have denied using abusive language or threatening the officer with retaliation.

"These two senators will have the right to explain that to the judge," Tiemann declared.

The governor said he is "completely convinced" that Trooper Roth was "in the right" and that the senators were not.

"The big bulk of the senators are law-abiding," Tiemann said, "but a handful consistently violate the law under the guise of immunity."

The immunity guarantee was provided to protect and assist senators, particularly in emergency cases, Tiemann said.

In any instances where senators require emergency assistance, the Patrol "will escort them" to their destination, he said.

But "flagrant abuse" of the law and of the protection of immunity "will not be tolerated," the governor insisted.

Ethics Unit Tells Code Guidelines

The recently formed State Code of Ethics Board outlined code guidelines Thursday to representatives of state government.

Established by the passage of LB75, the board is designed to oversee possible conflicts of interest in the executive branch of state government.

As defined, the code applies to any state department or bureau subject to the jurisdiction of the governor and to all employes of such offices.

Must File Code

According to Board Chairman Murrell McNeil, who is also state tax commissioner, all agency heads named in LB75 will be required to file with the board a code of ethics governing the activities of his employes.

In general terms the codes require that an employe shall not accept employment which would require him to disclose confidential information nor use his office to secure privileges or exemptions for himself or others.

The document also requires those covered to disclose any outside activities regarding situations that could be construed as conflicts of interest, and prohibits any such activities.

Rules Listed

Also during the meeting, Steve Denton, executive secretary of the conflict of interest committee, listed LB75's requirements for an annual disclosure of financial interest provisions.

Under its regulatory sphere, the bill requires state senators, constitutional officers, members of state boards or commissions, public power district directors and all employes salaried at $6,000 a year or more to submit a general financial disclosure by June 13.

The bill provides, however, the alternative of an annual submission of a federal income tax return, together with a certified statement of investments.

These records will be accessible to the public.

Inmate Serving Life Sentenced To Added Year

A Nebraska Penitentiary inmate serving a life sentence for the 1967 slaying of Lincoln Police Detective Paul Whitehead was sentenced to an additional year Thursday in connection with an assault on another inmate.

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles Thursday sentenced James Byrd, 28, to an additional year on a felony charge of an inmate asaulting another in connection with a Dec. 16, 1968, incident at the Penitentiary.

Byrd, who had pleaded innocent to the charge April 3 and was found guilty by jury April 8, was sentenced to an additional three years in prison for a similar assault last year.

$110,000 Stolen From Post Office

Quebec (AP) — Four masked bandits escaped across the St. Lawrence River in a motorboat Thursday after smashing their way into a post office in suburban Levis and grabbing three canvas sacks containing $110,000.

The four, armed with machine guns and revolvers exchanged about 20 shots with pursuing police during their flight but made their escape in a succession of stolen vehicles.

GSA Officials Say Air Base Housing Transfer Delayed

An official with the Kansas City regional office of the General Services Administration said Thursday that awarding of the Lincoln Air Base Housing area to the Lincoln Housing Authority will be delayed.

J. W. Harrop, chief of the real property division, said "something has come up at the last minute that will delay the awarding of the property for a little while."

Harrop said he was not authorized to disclose what the sudden delay was but did confirm that the sale had met with no objections from the government operations committees of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

Some Workers Back On Job As Picketing Ends

A few workers returned to Lincoln construction sites Thursday morning as pickets came down following a two-month strike.

Operating engineers voted Wednesday night to come to terms with the Building Construction Employers Association (BCEA). Only four dissenting votes were cast.

The engineers had erected the pickets shortly after an April 1 contract expiration which involved a dozen craft unions.

Ten Others

Ten other unions previously reached wage agreements with contracters.

The newest contract gives the operating engineers the "big end" of requested fringe benefits and salary increases totaling $1.80 per hour spread over the next three years, according to business representative Al Tritsch.

The removal of the picket lines cleared the way for all the contracted unions to return to work. Two remained officially on strike Thursday and another had not yet signed a contract.

On Strike

Painters and teamsters remained on strike and have made no recent attempts to arrange further negotiations, said BCEA President John Miller. But he said Laborers Local 1140 is back on the job, although they have not yet agreed to terms.

Miller said that although he did not know of any scheduled negotiations, he was hopeful that the removal of the pickets signaled a complete end to the work stoppage.

He also said that construction in the city could be back to normal by the first of next week and that some men will be working overtime as contractors try to make up for some of the lost time.

"All building deadlines are missed or way behind," said Miller, although he said that some contracts contain provisions for an extension of time in the event of a strike.

Airport Update Unlikely Til Late '70

Proposed expansion of Lincoln airport facilities will probably not begin until late 1970 at the earliest, according to Robert Phillips, chairman of the Lincoln Airport Authority.

The comment came during a meeting Thursday of Airport Authority officials and City Council members.

The meeting was held so that the council could be briefed on Airport Authority opinions in regard to the Burke Report, a document calling for a $10 million improvement program to update the Municipal Airport.

Not Yet Adopted

The report has not yet been adopted by the Airport Authority. A hearing on the report will be held by the authority at its June 17 meeting.

Phillips said during the meeting that contracts would likely not be let until late 1970 or possibly early 1971 — if all goes well.

Rolland Harr, executive director of the Airport Authority, pointed out that such improvements are contingent on the receipt of federal and state aid and Federal Aviation Administration approval of the Burke Report in addition to authority approval.

Chauncey Barney, legal counsel for the Airport Authority, said expansion and improvement of the airport facilities are necessary if the airport is to handle the expected increase in passenger traffic.

"The bulk (of traffic) is going to come in the next ten years and we must have a plan so that we can take care of them," Barney said.

He said that one-third of the total possible Lincoln traffic has been going to Omaha and boarding planes there.

"This is why we are fighting for better air service," Barney said. "We should be keeping Lincoln people here."

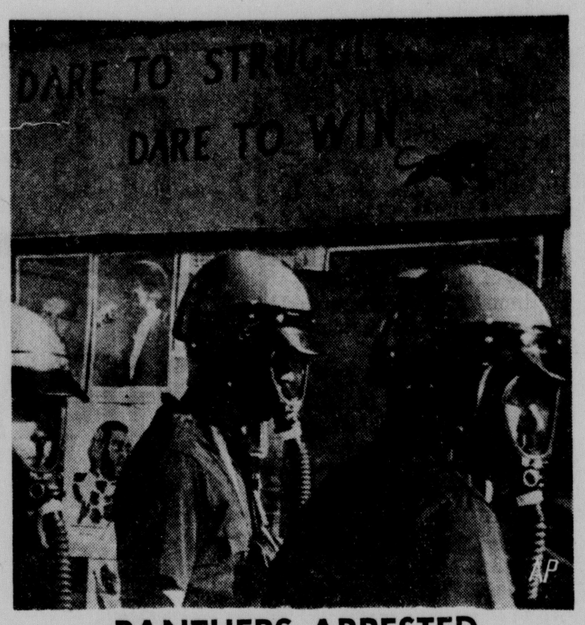

Funeral Director At Tekamah Dies

Tekamah—Funeral services were held Thursday at the First Methodist Church here for Lloyd C. Peck, 73, mortician at Tekamah for 40 years.

A native of Burt County, Mr. Peck homesteaded in Wyoming and then returned to Nebraska where he attended the University of Nebraska. He founded the Hamel and Peck Funeral Home in Tekamah.

He was a 50-year Mason, a member of the Lions Club and a past member of the Tekamah School Board.

PANTHERS ARRESTED

Denver police prepare to search Denver Black Panther headquarters following the torture death of a panther member in New Haven, Conn. Two Black Panthers, Rory B. Hithe, 18, and Landon Robert Williams, 25, were being held in jail, charged with the murder of Alex Rackley, 24, of New York City.

Obering Raps Road Fund Formula Shift

Lincoln Public Works Director Robert Obering, charged Thursday that the revised highway revenue distribution formula being considered by the State Legislature "will have a definite detrimental effect on the city's street improvement program."

The revised formula reduces during the first four years — beginning in 1970 — the city's share of state funds for roads.

The impact of the revised formula during 1970 would be a reduction from an original recommendation of $2,598,086 in state funds to $2,371,516.

"The city will lose nearly a million dollars over the next four years that could be used for street improvements," Obering pointed out.

The public works director said the city needs to spend a minimum of $3 million a year to stay on top of its 20-year street improvement program.

He said that under the revised formula, total revenue available to the city would total slightly less than the necessary $3 million.

The $3 million includes money the city receives from its wheel tax revenues.

"Anything we lose (in revenues) affects our overall program since the loss cuts down on what street improvements we can make," Obering said.

The drafted bill proposed that cities receive 23 1-3% of total highway revenues with counties receiving a like amount and the state getting 53 1-3%.

The amended version of the bill would provide cities with 21 1-3% during 1970 and 1971, 22 1-3% during 1972 and 1973 and 23 1-3% during 1974.

Drive To Force School Reorganization Vote Slated

Formation of a corporation to spearhead a drive to place mandatory school reorganization on the 1970 general election ballot was announced here Thursday.

State Board of Education member Frank Landis said that a committee has been organized to form a statewide Cornhusker Education Corporation. Landis will serve as chairman.

The group also will support candidates for the State Board of Education who are "interested in improving school standards for Nebraska, and attempt to correct misinformation and distorted facts now being disseminated throughout the state," Landis reported.

'Schools In Trouble'

The support of "all interested citizens," will be solicited, he declared. "Nebraska public schools are in trouble," he added.

Members of the lay committee include all former members of the State Board of Education still living in Nebraska, Landis said.

They are William A. Metzger of Louisville, vice chairman; Mrs. Susan Perry of Holdrege, secretary; W. Ray Hill of Lincoln, Ben F. Hormel of McCook, Everett B. Yost of Milford, Dr. R. M. Gilmore of Kearney, Hamilton F. Mitten of Fremont, Mrs. Marcella Krause of Alliance and Mrs. Gene Fowler of Lexington.

Also Robert E. Kiester of Hemingford, Mrs. Joyce Stear of Holbrook, Dr. John L. Batty of McCook, Otto Kotouc Jr. of Humboldt, Mrs. Terry Morrison of Mitchell, Morris Jacobs of Omaha, Dr. James E. Ramsay of Atkinson and Mrs. Lawrence Greenfield of Newport.

Current Members

Current board members Norman Otto of Millard and Robert Simmons Jr. of Scottsbluff, in addition to Landis, also are committee members.

Lincoln attorney Chauncey Barney has been retained as general counsel.

According to Landis, the method of school reorganization will be left "to the good wisdom" of the Nebraska Legislature if the voters approve mandatory school reorganization.

"For the past 10 years, many areas of our state have been rent with savage redistricting struggles. The unfortunate effect of the multiplicity of school districts and the tax and education inequities will continue unabated, and to the detriment of education in our state, unless the matter is soon and finally settled," he said.

Most Class I

The majority of school districts in Nebraska are Class I districts whose patrons will "cling to their undemocratic tax advantage" as long as the people and Legislature will permit. (Class I districts are rural elementary districts.)

Landis said that the two basic issues now facing Nebraskans are educational inequality and tax inequity.

Four of the state board members are up for re-election in 1970. Three of them, John Londay of Omaha, Deborah Shepherd of Lexington and John Wagoner of Grand Island, last week helped fire State Education Commissioner Dr. Floyd Miller. The fourth is Simmons.

New VA Head To Study Existing Vets Programs

© New York Times Service

San Clemente, Calif. — President Nixon Thursday nominated Donald E. Johnson, 45, as the new head of the Veterans Administration and promptly instructed him to re-evaluate existing veterans benefit programs, particularly the GI Bill.

Recent studies have suggested that far fewer veterans returning from the Vietnam war are using the GI Bill to go to college than was the case after World War II and the Korean War.

"I was shocked and surprised to find that out," Nixon said.

He said he told Johnson to find out why this is so.

The VA post requires Senate confirmation and pays $42,500 a year.

Denies Personalities

Meanwhile, a White House spokesman denied that Nixon had referred to any individual when the President complained in a speech Wednesday at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, that some critics of the military were "new isolationists" who would have America "turn its back" on its global commitments and responsibilities.

The speech drew sharp protests from some prominent critics of the military on Capitol Hill. Chief among them was Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who suggested that Nixon's attack had been aimed at him personally.

Press secreary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon "did not have anyone specifically in mind" when he made the talk.

To Head Committee

Nixon announced Thursday that Johnson would head a new President's Committee on the Vietnam Veteran to help more veterans secure benefits, to assist in redesigning existing programs to aid poor, untrained, and uneducated veterans, and to recommended ways of tailoring the entire range of benefits to the "specific challenges" of modern urban society.

Nixon said that to assist the committee, he had directed the Budget Bureau to undertake a general study of returning veterans, "with emphasis upon those coming from disadvantaged backgrounds."

Johnson, a veteran of World War II, and a former national commander of the American Legion, lives in West Branch, Iowa.

Moose Needs No Hat Rack

Washington (UPI) — It was not exactly unheard of, but it was highly unusual. The congressman argued Thursday against a public works project in his own district.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., called the proposal to spend $2.5 million in dredging the Port Jefferson Harbor on Long Island a "small boondoggle" that would benefit one company "which needs a federal handout like a moose needs a hat rack."

Student Unrest Said Widespread

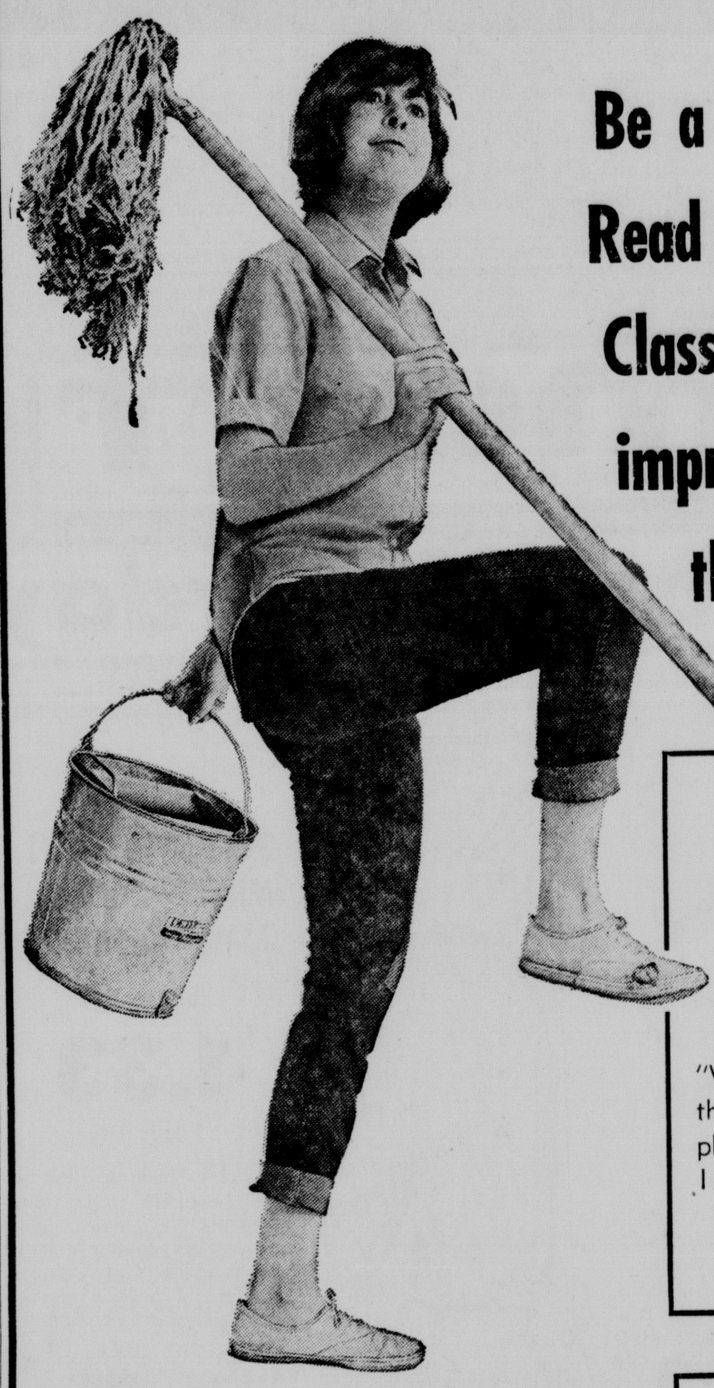

Washington (AP) — Rep. William A. Steiger of Wisconsin, one of a group of Republican House members who recently visited college campuses across the country, said Thursday student unrest is far more widespread and serious than is generally believed.

Steiger said it is a mistake to assume that only handfuls of revolutionary students are dissatisfied with the way colleges operate now.

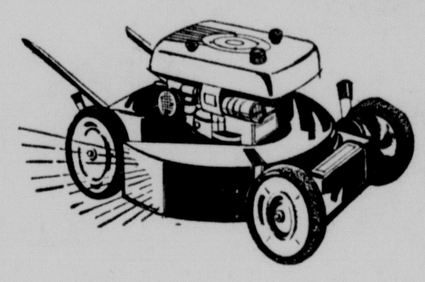

"The disaffection and alienation which one finds in student revolutionaries is widespread throughout many student bodies," Steiger said.

Stanley Named To Top Ed Post

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Staf Staff Writer

Cecil Stanley, assistant commissioner in charge of vocational education, Thursday was unanimously voted commissioner of education for Nebraska by the State Board of Education.

Stanley, 60, was given a term ending Feb. 1, 1971.

He succeeds Dr. Floyd Miller who was dismissed by the board last week after months of conflict with the five-member majority of the state board.

Saying he had not sought the position of commissioner but would accept it since an emergency exists, Stanley told the board after his election, "We have one thing going for us — as far as I know, the lines of communication are completely open between the new commissioner and all members of the board."

$19,000 Salary

The board set Stanley's salary as commissioner at $19,000, the same as Miller received. Stanley previously earned $15,400.

He indicated after the meeting that he would suggest that his deputy, Glen Strain, be named assistant commissioner for vocational education. However, Stanley told the board that he would like to have his old job back when another commissioner is chosen.

Before accepting the position, Stanley read a prepared statement so that board members "will not be buying a pig in a poke."

He declared that he had served with Miller for the past 20 years and considered him a personal friend.

"I supported him (Miller) during his years as commissioner and consider myself as having been completely loyal to him," he said.

Stanley pointed out that the state board, sitting as the State Board of Vocational Education, has "always been most cooperative and helpful" to the division and "it has given complete support to the program for which I have been responsible. I am not only appreciative of this support but I feel an obligation to the board because of such support."

He said he felt he has "excellent rapport" with "all eight members."

Only 'No' Vote

Board members disagreed about the term of office, with Norman Otto of Millard casting the lone dissenting vote to the Feb. 1, 1971 proposal. He had suggested a six-month term.

Board members John Londay of Omaha and Robert Simmons of Scottsbluff were absent and not voting.

Otto pointed out that setting a definite term would mean that the board would have to show cause for dismissing a commissioner at any time other than the expiration of a term.

"Does this board suddenly want to go to the procedure of having to show cause for dismissing a commissioner?" Otto demanded. "That didn't seem to concern us last week," he added sarcastically. Otto was one of the three-member minority on the board who supported Miller.

Heated Exchange

Otto's comments evoked a heated exchange with John Wagoner of Grand Island who defended his vote against Miller by saying he acted as the board's attorney had directed.

Wagoner had earlier said that he saw no reason to set a definite term "unless we're going to make it board policy."

Stanley suggested a term of at least one year to "establish a degree of continuity" to assure the department of education staff. There is a "great deal of uncertainty on the part of numerous professional and clerical staff members right now," he told the board.

The agenda had called for the board to select an "acting commissioner" at the special meeting, but state law makes no provision for an acting commissioner.

SWIMMING POOL . . . undergoes complete cleaning job.

Pool Becomes Community Project

A slightly different version of a "barn-raising" — once popular in rural Nebraska — is going on at Lincoln Air Park West.

Instead of raising a barn, area residents are "raising" a swimming pool.

"It is truly a community project," said Mrs. Maureen Shawver, president of a non-profit corporation formed to underwrite the costs of the city's operation of the pool.

She said the residents of the old Lincoln Air Force Base housing area have "really gotten behind the project and are working at the pool to clean it up and put it into use."

Mrs. Shawver said some 20 persons have been working at night during the week. She said she expects at least 50 to be involved in the clean-up over the weekend.

James Ager, director of the City Park and Recreation Department, said the pool should open sometime next week.

Residents want to make sure that it does.

"Everybody from military persons to businessmen and mothers to students have been involved in the pool project," Mrs. Shawver said. "Even my three-year-old son has been doing some work in sweeping the bottom of the pool."

Mrs. Shawver said plans for the weekend include painting the pool and putting up fencing.

Committee Okays Salary Increases For VP, Speaker

Washington (AP) — The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee unanimously approved Thursday a bill to increase the salary of the vice president and the speaker of the house from $43,000 to $62,500 a year.

The bill was passed by the House on March 18.

The bill would also increase the salaries of the majority and minority leaders of the Senate and the House to $55,000. They now get $42,500.

Earlier this year the salaries of members of the Senate and the House were raised from $30,000 a year to $42,500.

Curtis Ties Douglas To Mobsters

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said Thursday two Las Vegas mobsters had been associates of Justice William O. Douglas and called for disclosure of details of their relationships.

Curtis said the two "mobsters," whom he identified as Edward Levinson and Edward Torres, were on the same payroll with Douglas when he served as president of the Albert Parvin Foundation for $12,000 a year.

Curtis told the Senate that Torres and Levinson were employes of the Fremont Hotel, one of three gambling houses in Las Vegas at one time owned by the Parvin-Dohrmann Corp., which was partly owned by the Parvin Foundation.

"Parvin, with Douglas on the payroll of his foundation, bought into the Fremont in 1966 and maintained a business relationship with Levinson and Torres for the continued operation of the Fremont and possibly other gambling casinos," Curtis said.

Curtis did not say that Douglas was actually acquainted with Torres and Levinson, both of whom were called before the Senate Rules Committee during its 1964 Bobby Baker investigation.

But he said Levinson was fined $5,000 several years ago for "helping file falsified income tax forms (and) his connection with the Cosa Nostra has been given wide national publicity."

Also, Curtis said, Torres told the Rules Committee in 1964 that he was a friend of Levinson, an officer in the Fremont and a stockholder in a vending machine firm involved in the Baker case.

Curtis read a 1967 Life magazine article on alleged crime syndicate "skimming" — illegally pocketing a portion of casino receipts to avoid taxes. The article cited the Fremont and quoted Levinson in connection with an alleged skimming scheme.

Douglas resigned as foundation president two weeks ago, but Curtis said: "The record demands a thorough disclosure and exposure of all of the facts and circumstances surrounding any and all contacts between Douglas and Parvin, his foundation and corporations which were connected with organized gambling, and Edward Levinson and Edward Torres."

Business Spending Remains Strongest Force In Economy

© New York Times Service

By EILEEN SHANAHAN

Washington — Business spending on new plants and equipment will be moderately lower than businesses predicted just a few months ago, according to a government survey made public Thursday.

The slower rate of rise in such business investment would still leave investment as the strongest single upward force in the economy, however.

The new quarterly survey of business investment plans, conducted jointly by the Commerce Department and Securities and Exchange Commission, showed that spending on plants and equipment is currently expected to rise by 12.5% from the 1968 total to a new total of $72.2 billion. That is what the businesses surveyed were predicting as of late April and early May.

Projections Differ

The survey taken last February projected a 14% rise from the 1968 totals. The difference between the old survey and the new one amounts to about three-quarters of a billion dollars.

A possibly more bearish sign than the forecast of investment outlays for the whole of the present year was, however, the failure of businesses actually to invest as much as they originally planned in the first quarter of this year.

Such a falling short of actual investment, compared with earlier plans, has sometimes in the past — though not always — been an early sign of a actual decline in business investment.

The actual total investment outlays of business in the first quarter of this year were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $68.9 billion, which was an increase of $3.9 billion or 4½% from the outlays of the last quarter of last year. But the rise was only half of the 9% increase that businessmen were predicting last February.

$72 Billion Estimated

On the other hand, investment outlays for the current quarter were estimated to run at an annual rate of $72 billion, where the prediction in February for the same quarter was for outlays at a rate of $70.85 billion.

The new second-quarter prediction, if realized, would involve an increase of 4½% — the same as in the first quarter.

For the final half of this year, however, the rate of gain would be smaller, according to the new survey with investment outlays scheduled to rise to a rate of $73.45 billion on the third quarter and $74 billion in the fourth.

The availability of the new figures has apparently left unchanged the administration's assessment of the general economic outlook.

Trees Destroyed

Lincoln police said they were looking for a group of youths who allegedly destroyed four cherry trees in Eden Park, 44th and Antelope Creek Road.

U.S. Plane Is Missing In Aleutians

Washington (AP) — An Air Force reconnaissance plane with 19 men aboard is missing in the western Aleutian Islands, the Pentagon announced Thursday night.

At first the Elmendorf Air Force Base at Anchorage, Alaska, reported picking up a distress signal. Later the base said it was not a distress signal but a low frequency signal from a generator aboard the plane.

The Pentagon said the RC135 was not shot down.

Its last estimated position was 250 miles east of Shemya, on what was described as a routine flight from Shemya to Eielson Air Force Base, north of Fairbanks.

Sixteen airplanes were reported searching the area late Thursday, with weather reported to feature some broken clouds and moderate winds.

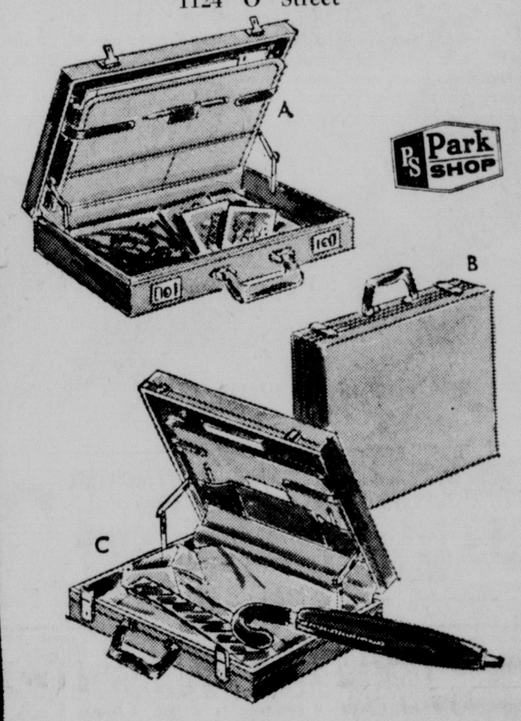

The plane, powered by four turbo-fan engines, carries electronic reconnaissance equipment, the Pentagon said.

This indicates that the missing RC135's mission probably involved checking Soviet radar and possible monitoring Russian radio communications.

U.S. Set To Ignore Missile Opposition

New York Times Service

Washington — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Thursday the administration was resolved to continue its test firings of advanced strategic missiles, thus dismissing congressional warnings that such tests would foreclose an arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union.

The tests, he argued, are not relevant to the chances for success in a new round of disarmament talks with the Soviet Union, and should be continued even after the negotiations begin this summer.

At issue are the so-called MIRV tests — firings of missiles carrying multiple warheads that can be directed to separate targets.

At his second formal news conference, the secretary plunged into the middle of an acrimonious public debate between the administration and influential voices in Congress, which apparently also has its private counterpart within the executive branch itself.

On record as opposing the testing are such senators as Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio; and J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

★ ★ ★ ★

Sen. Case Challenges MIRV

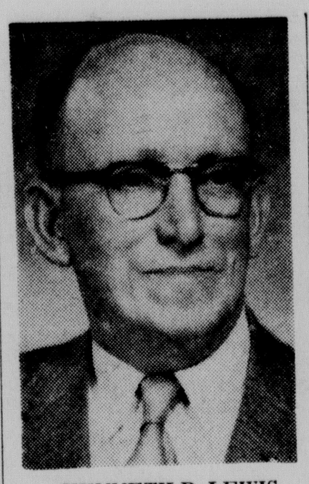

New York Times Service

Washington — The Nixon administration came under attack from its Republican flank in the Senate Thursday as Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-Nj., moved to force the issue in the misile defense controversy.

The senator announced that at an Appropriations Committee meeting Friday he would offer an amendment to an appropriations bill which would call upon President Nixon to seek a moratorium on testing of multiple warheads for missiles.

The Case amendment would express the sense of Congress that the United States should cease testing MIRV (for multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles) warheads so long as the Soviet Union refrains from testing multiple warheads.

It would also call upon the President to set a date for the start of talks on stragetic arms limitation with the Soviet Union.

KENNETH P. LEWIS

Postmasters Elect Lewis

Lincoln Postmaster Kenneth P. Lewis Thursday was elected president of the Nebraska chapter of the National Association of Postmasters at the annual convention here.

Lewis, who will take office in 1970, will succeed Mrs. Edith C. Haackl of Wynot.

John Rethwisch of Carroll was elected first vice president. J. R. Haddox of Oshkosh was named second vice president. A. L. Porr of Pawnee City was re-elected secretary treasurer.

The election of new officers concluded business of the four-day convention attended by some 250 Nebraska postmasters.

Addressing the closing banquet Thursday night was Peter A. Del Grosso, special assistant to the assistant postmaster general in the Bureau of Operations of the Post Office Department.

Geneva (UPI) — City authorities said up to 200,000 persons are expected to turn out for the June 10 visit of Pope Paul VI. More than 2,000 police, soldiers and detectives have been enlisted to provide security and control traffic.

Dennis Appointed OIC Executive; Salary $13,935

Omaha (AP) — The chairman of the board of the Omaha Opportunities Industrialization Center, Thomas E. Mason, Thursday announced the appointment of Emmett J. Dennis Jr. as executive director of the organization.

Dennis is the former director of the State Motor Vehicles Department.

Dennis, 36, said the OIC should train persons "in skills the market place demands." His salary in the new post will be $13,935 a year.

Arab Rockets Hit Israeli Settlements

Jerusalem (AP) — Rockets fired from Jordan and Lebanon slammed into Israeli border settlements Thursday and Arab saboteurs hurled hand grenades in Jerusalem, the west bank and the Gaza Strip on the second anniversary of the six-day war.

The army said the rocket attacks were directed at Neve Eitan and Hamadia in the Beisan Valley, south of the Sea of Galilee, and at Kfar Giladi and Tel Hai, near the Lebanese frontier. It said seven Israeli civilians were wounded.

A spokesman said Israeli artillery fired back "to silence the sources of the shooting."

Six Israeli soldiers were wounded in the terrorist bombings, which followed the killing of two Israeli army sergeants and a corporal in a bazooka and grenade attack near Gaza City Wednesday night.

In Jerusalem, Arab shopkeepers closed their stores in the bazaars of the ancient walled city.

A grenade, believed tossed from the tall honey-colored walls near Herod's Gate, exploded with a "whoomp" in the main street below, injuring an Israeli soldier and four Arabs.

Shrapnel from the grenade peppered taxis parked near the gate and sent bystanders hurrying for cover.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Summer is definitely here. We broke out the barbecue. Fired it up and listened to the summer sound of hamburgers sizzling. The ice tinkling in the glasses.

I've retreated this year to a modest two-firepit hibachi. A table model. A sports car barbecue.

I tell other backyard chefs: "Know how much it costs me to run this little old barbecue? Only one sack of charcoal a month!"

The ones with the big barbecues — the electric spit, the carving board, the copper smoke hood — those chaps flinch. It hurts. For it takes one sack full just to start the Cadillac jobs.

There is not much goodwill among men who barbecue. It's competitive stuff.

☆ ☆ ☆

We put the chairs on the deck. We sit beside the flaming coal, looking across the dark valley into our neighbors' lighted homes.

"I see Whistlestop is on his third martini. He's starting early tonight." No family remains anonymous in hilly neighborhoods. You look across into somebody's house. Somebody is looking across on you.

All over the valley, barbecue smoke rises into the summer night sky. We provide burnt offerings to our primal ancestors who had to cook in the open. (Their spirits must wonder what in the world we are doing. We moderns with the thousand dollar, cleans-itself, automatic cooking stove in the kitchen.)

☆ ☆ ☆

"I think those hamburgers are getting too well done," she said. "Shouldn't you turn them?" I said: "Would you like to do the cooking?"

"Don't snap," she said. "I'm just trying to be helpful."

"You could fix me another drink," I said. "That would help."

She said: "Now it's beginning to flame. Shouldn't you spray water on it?"

I said: "Make that double this time."

The family that cooks together is in delicate balance.

American families spend $100 million on barbecue gadgetry each year. Barbecues and electric spits. Forks with long handles. ("Watch out for the grease!") Chefs' caps. Aprons with funny sayings on them. (Don't stand there! Help!")

☆ ☆ ☆

A fact I will admit after many a burning year of this outdoor status cooking: I cannot tell the difference in meat from the barbecue, meat from the stove.

I have loaded the barbecue with pieces of apple wood.

A friend sent me sassafras shavings; it should give meat a flavor.

I can't tell.

Even so, come summer we set up the barbecue. The steak sizzles. The fire blazes. (We keep a water pistol to shoot it down. I am The Fastest Water Pistol in the West.)

☆ ☆ ☆

"Whistlestop's on his fourth gin," I said looking across the valley. "His wife's in the kitchen now. Looks like she's reading him off."

Cozy times in our smoky suburbs. "Peyton Place" has gone off TV. But we've got our own show. Silent. They supply the action; we supply the dialogue.

How do they read us? Across the valley. When it's summertime and the living is easy. (I said: "Open the beer and I'll put the hamburgers on." "Did you pay the gas bill?" she said.)

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Diamonds. North leads the jack of spades. How would you play the hand?

♠ 8 5 ♥ 9 ♦ A Q J 10 ♣ A K 8 7 4 3	N W E S	♠ A K 7 2 ♥ A J 8 5 2 ♦ K 6 3 ♣ 6

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the three of spades. How would you play the hand?

♠ A 8 ♥ A 9 6 2 ♦ K ♣ A J 10 9 8 7	N W E S	♠ K 4 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ A Q 9 7 6 4 2 ♣ 2

1. Win the spade with the king, play the six of clubs and duck it! Unless you are exceptionally unlucky, you will now make the hand.

Let's assume a spade or a heart is returned. You simply win in dummy, lead a low trump to the ten, ruff a club with the king, then draw trumps. If the clubs and diamonds are both divided either 3-3 or 4-2, which is the normal expectancy, you've made the contract. The only trick you lose is a club.

But note that if you lead a club to the ace at trick two and then ruff a club, you run into trouble if both the minor suits prove to be divided 4-2. The shortage of entries to the West hand will cause you to lose control.

2. Here, also, the most obvious line of play is not quite the best available.

Thus, it would be wrong to win the spade with the ace, cash the king of diamonds, and then cross to dummy's king of spades in the hope of finding the diamonds divided 3-2. This would amount to staking the hand entirely on a favorable diamond division. While it is indeed likely that the diamonds will split 3-2, there is no need to rely exclusively on this contingency.

A better method of play, after taking the ace of spades, is to lead the king of diamonds and overtake it with the ace. Now cash the queen to see whether both defenders follow suit. If they do, continue with a diamond, thus assuring ten tricks (two spades, a heart, six diamonds and a club).

If the diamonds prove to be divided 4-1, lead a club from dummy and finesse if South follows low. You will have time to develop the club suit and make four notrump if South has any of the following holdings: K, Q, K-Q, K-x Q-x, K-Q-x, or x-x-x-x.

Questions And Answers

Josephine Lowman

Q. Does it matter when I eat if I do not go over the number of calories I am supposed to have? Will it make any difference in how much I lose?

A. No, not so long as you stay within the allowable calorie count every 24 hours. However, most people find that it is better not to skip a meal.

Q. Can bunions be operated on?

A. Yes. See a podiatrist.

Q. Isn't it strange that at middle age I am now having pimples just as I did as a teen-ager? In between these two periods my complexion was fine. Why? What to do?

A. Perhaps this comes from some infection or body malfunction of some sort. I suggest that you talk to your family physician about it or see a skin specialist. Although it is not the usual experience, some women do have skin problems during menopause.

Q. Does everyone need eight honrs sleep a night? I never have more than about seven, many nights only six. I feel all right but wonder if I am hurting my health.

A. Peope vary greatly as to the amount of sleep they need. If you feel peppy and well you are probably getting enough "shut-eye." The averge person requires about seven hours. Teen-agers can profit by nine hours.

Q. I like big hats. They are so pretty with their broad brims and their flowers. However my friends tell me that I am too short to wear them. I am only 5 feet tall. What do you think?

A. Sorry, I have to agree with your friends. A big hat will make you look mashed down, or like a mushroom.

Q. Is it dangerous to have your ears pierced?

A. No, but it is best to let your doctor do it.

Q. I am going on a diet but I love yoghurt and I cannot find, for the life of me, how many calories there are in each container. I have consulted many sources and no one shed light on the subject. Please help me — MUST KNOW.

A. Dear MUST KNOW; no wonder you are confused because the calorie content in yoghurt varies greatly, depending on the flavor. I do not know which kind you crave.

It is a good, healthful food, but you should stick to plain yoghurt if you are reducing. One cup of plain yoghurt, made from partially skim milk, has about 125 calories. One cup of plain yoghurt, made with whole milk, has about 150 calories. One cup of raspberry yoghurt has about 250 calories. See what I mean??

Q. I have a problem under my eyes. About three months ago something that looks like whiteheads appeared there. What can I do about it?

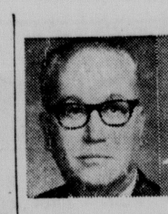

A. I think you should see a dermatologist (skin specialist). These can be removed.

Q. I just discovered your column about a week ago and I already like it. I am 15 years old and my measurements are 34-26-34. I would like to lose three inches off my waist. Do you have an exercise for that?

A. I have just discovered YOU and I already like you too. Your measurements are very good for a young woman your age. For perfection you need to lose only two inches from your waist measurement. Be conscious of your posture! If you pull your tummy in and tuck your hips under it just might take care of those two inches.

Had you been reading my column sooner you would already know some excellent waist reducers. This is a good one, and not difficult to do. Lie on your back with your arms overhead resting on the floor. Bend both knees and grasp your knees with your hands. VERY slowly, straighten your legs toward the ceiling and lower them to the floor (with stiff knees) as your return your arms to the overhead position. Then take time to stretch out, making yourself as long as possible. Repeat, slowly.

Farewell Luncheon Is Also Reunion

Although it was truly a farewell courtesy, the members of the group attending the luncheon honoring Mrs. Donald Lawson are pretty certain that her departure this month with her family for a new home in Milwaukee will not mean "out of sight, out of mind".

This particular group of friends, you understand, had its beginning some 20 years ago at Havelock Junior High School, and the close ties of friendship have remained strong through school days at Northeast High, various colleges and universities, and eventual marriages and transfers to distant states.

Attending the recent luncheon, for which Mrs. LaVern Holscher was hostess at the Colonial Inn., were (from the left) Mrs. Leonard Barnhill, Mrs. Robert Butts, Mrs. Lawson, Mrs. Holscher and Mrs. Richard Grell.

Unable to be present for the afternoon were Mrs. Les Sieck and Mrs. James LaFollette of Lincoln; Mrs. Mancel McGill of Greenwood; Mrs. Glen Houser, Waverly; and Mrs. James Wadlow, who now lives in Arlington, Tex.

No wedding date is named.

Miss Hugg is a graduate of the Minnesota School of Business in Minneapolis. She now is attending the University of Nebraska and also is careering as a secretary in the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska.

Abby: and look what happened!

DEAR ABBY: A great deal has happened to our country lately, and the youth is blamed. We've been called everything from "flower children" to hippies. Everywhere you hear about "protesters" and draft dodgers, and adults are suspicious of any teen-ager with long hair.

I recently came across this quote from a worried adult:

"What is this world coming to? What will the world be like when the younger generation takes over? Will it be destroyed by individualism and lack of leadership? (Signed Socrates, 469 B.C.)"

Sincerely yours,

LINDA IN CEDAR RAPIDS

DEAR LINDA: And look what happened to Socrates' "world" — which was Greece! And they didn't regain stature again until Melina Mercouri made "Never on Sunday" and Jackie married Onassis.

NO NAME, PLEASE

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOUNG PHILOSOPHER:

How's this: "The grand essentials to happiness in this life are (1) Something to do. (2) Someone to love. (3) Something to look forward to."

—Joseph Addison

Activity In Suburbia

Guests are the main concern of suburban residents today, and we aren't a bit surprised. A list of the home towns and states of recent visitors and those soon-to-arrive reads like a miniature recitation of all the states in the Union. The guests we want to mention today come from west, north and east. We'll save those from points south for another day.

Of course we don't want to give the impression that visits from Washington, Colorado, South Dakota and Maine residents are the only news we know. So, rather than waiting another moment, we will start with two of those out-of-state guests before we continue with some more local, but certainly no less exciting, news.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bennett and children, Bill and Nancy, entertained Miss Leta Hensel of Denver, Colo., and her father, Alvin Hensel of Sioux Falls, S.D., as Thursday-to-Sunday house guests at their Southbrook Summit home.

The Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Mitchell might be mistaken for a track and field locker room these days and for two very good reasons, we might add. Their sons, Neil, 13, and Phil, 15, qualified Wednesday in the Lincoln Junior Olympics to compete in the Nebraska Junior Olympics on Saturday, June 15.

Neil will be a member of the boys junior division 440 yard relay team representing Lincoln. Phil qualified as the Lincoln representaive in the boys intermediate division for the 220 yard dash, shot-put, and was on the qualifying 440 yard relay team.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren E. Otte and children, Michelle, two, and Michael, five, are preparing for the Saturday, June 28, arrival of Mrs. Otte's mother, Mrs. Kenneth London of Bath, Maine. Mrs. London will be a house guest in the Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. Otte for 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Linebaugh's Skyline Terrace home was the setting for a birthday celebration on Friday evening, May 23 — much to the surprise of Mr. Linebaugh. He knew that May 23 was his birthday, you see, but he did not know that Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Jorns, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alley, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schweitzer were planning a party to make the event more festive.

Mr. and Mrs. David Brownell returned to their Happy Hollow home on June 1 after spending the weekend in Franklin where they visited Mrs. Brownell's parents. The two Brownell daughters, Suzy and Marilyn, remained in Franklin for a short vacation.

Memorial Day proved to be a big homecoming day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Larsen as their eight-week-old daughter Carol, came home from the hospital. Carol had spent two weeks in the hospital suffering from a virus cold.

Indian Village resident Mrs. Warren R. Boyd is quickly making plans for a special party to honor Mrs Elizabeth Hendricks who arrives today from her Longview, Wash., home for a long weekend — or more — visit. While she is in town Mrs. Hendricks will visit with the many friends she has in Lincoln, including Mrs. Boyd, of course, and Mrs. Tom Barnes. Although party plans aren't definite yet, we're sure the stay in Lincoln will be one to remember.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, Aug. 17.

Miss Bliss is a senior at the Lincoln General Hospital School of Nursing.

Mr. Kline is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University where he is a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

Entertaining for Miss Schultz on Tuesday evening were Mrs. Harold Alexander, Mrs. Gale Anderson, Mrs. A. V. Grass and Mrs. John Larsen who were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Alexander. The guests included feminine members of the congregation of Trinity Methodist Church.

Book Review

Miss Berta Dean reviewed "The American Story," by Bruce and Beatrice Blackmor Gould, at the Thursday evening meeting of the Bookmark Club. The 7:45 o'clock meeting was held at the home of Miss Edna Thompson.

Talk Around The Town

It seems incredible — but it's true — One week of that "what-is-so-rare-as-a-day - in June" month (apologies to James Russell Lowell) is on its way out. To make matters worse that much heralded longest day of the year will be here and gone before one has time to appreciate it.

• • •

Guests come and go, too. It seems just yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donovan, Jr., arrived from San Jose, Calif. They have been in Lincoln, the guests of Mr. Donovan's parents, RAdm.(Ret.)and Mrs. Thomas Donovan, since last Sunday, and they will leave tomorrow to return home.

Numerous informal affairs have honored Mr. and Mrs. Donovan during their stay in town.

• • •

Then we heard that Mrs. Mariel Prieb of Seattle, Wash., is spending some time in Lincoln as the guest of her son and daughter-in-law. Mrs. Prieb is no stranger to Lincoln since she was an exceedingly popular coed on the University of Nebraska campus during her college days — She is the former Mariel McLucas of Fairbury — Kappa Kappa Gamma at Nebraska.

• • •

Several days ago we mentioned that Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carter would be arriving from Sherman Oaks, Calif., in mid-June. The mid-June date, however, has been narrowed down to June 13 or 14.

There is another date that involves Mr. and Mrs. Carter, however. This one is Tuesday, June 17. That is when Mr. and Mrs. Gates Minnick and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gerleman (Colleen Farrell) will be hosts and hostesses at a canape party, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Minnick, in courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Carter.

• • •

There is a June Flower Festival on the calendar for Friday, June 6 — Actually it is the traditional and annual bridge luncheon and guest day for the distaff side of the Fifty Fifty Club, and the 'flower festival' angle, of course, is the luncheon theme.

The party is to be held at the Hillcrest Country Club, and the committee in charge of all arrangements includes Mrs. Henry Armstrong, chairman; Mrs. Harold Parrott, Mrs. Earl Trabert and Mrs. Ben Fischer.

• • •

And after June 17? All we can tell you at this moment that time will not be hanging heavily on anyone's hands — if the Swingfest activity runs true to form —We know that this great and glorious event the Lincoln Country Club opens with a stag dinner — and that the finale is a dinner dance for the Swingfesters and their wives — There also are rumors of a 'shore' dinner to which the wives also have been invited.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Recruiting Average Good

Since Bob Devaney and his crew took over the football chores at Nebraska, their in-state recruiting average has been nearly as good as the purety of that one kind of soap.

Devaney and his staff annually have gotten nearly 100% of the Nebraska athletes they've wanted, missing on only a few such as Russell Harrison of Kansas State.

This year was no exception when they signed all but one of the Cornhusker State football stars they wanted. Most of these were backs and ends.

"There seemed to be more good offensive backs and ends in the state than in past years," Devaney points out. "But there weren't as many offensive linemen, particularly interior linemen.

"We felt our recruiting was very successful this season, but if there was one thing we didn't get enough of, I think it would have to be offensive linemen.

"We didn't get as many of them as we would liked to have signed."

Another Problem With Linemen

Once you get 'em there's still another problem with interior offensive linemen.

"Being an interior offensive lineman is the toughest job in football," Devaney observes. "It takes longer to learn the difficult assignments in the offensive line than in other spots.

"You take a boy, who has some ability and a lot of guts, who wants to be where the ball is and you can make a pretty good defensive lineman out of him.

"Playing the offensive line is more difficult because you're faced with a different situation on nearly every play. You have to be more adjustable.

"Take a look at your top offensive linemen year after year and you'll find that most of them have been redshirted.

"That was the case with those real good offensive linemen we had a few years ago." Devaney was referring to the likes of Lloyd Voss, Bob Jones, and Bob Brown.

Moving To Other Areas

While his percentage of in-state success remained very high, the Devaney staff also moved into a couple of new areas this spring.

"We got two players out of New Jersey this spring," Devaney notes. "That's the first players we've gotten out of there. We also signed some from California, an area where we haven't done much recruiting previously."

The California signings were largely a result of Devaney's appearance as coach of the West team in the East-West Shrine Bowl last winter.

To Chicago For QB

The Devaney staff returned to Chicago where they once picked up Fred Duda, one of Nebraska's top all-time quarterbacks to get another one this spring.

"We took a shot at four or five quarterbacks this spring and we got what we think are two real good ones," Devaney says.

Assistant coach Monte Kiffin signed Chicago's Bob Jones, a 6-2, 200-pounder, to a natonal letter-of-intent and John O'Connell of Sidney also inked a Husker pact.

In addition, the Huskers have Max Linder, the outstanding prep star from Plattsmouth, returning as a freshman this fall after sitting out last season because of a back operation.

Dike Gets New Rider For Belmont Race

New York (AP) — Stretch-running Dike got a new rider and a surge of fresh support Thursday as he prepared for another battle with favored Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters in Saturday's 101st Belmont Stakes.

Trainer Lucien Laurin announced that Eddie Belmonte, and not Jorge Velasquez, would be aboard Bull Hancock's towering chestnut stayer in the 1½ mile test at Belmont Park, the longest and last race in the Triple Crown series.

"Dike is in tip-top shape," the normally conservative Laurin said. "I think he'll be fresher than the other two who had to leave something of themselves on the track at Pimlico."

"He's a fine colt — I don't think he can be beaten," said Belmonte, a Puerto Rican who has won close to $2 million riding on U.S. tracks since 1961.

Dike, who finished three-quarters of a length back of Majestic Prince for third money in the 1¼ mile Derby, was held out of the 1 3-16 mile Preakness where Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters repeated their 1-2 act, with the Prince's winning margin cut from a neck to a head.

Early odds on Dike in the Belmont are 2-1 but they are likely to shorten before the 4:37 p.m. CDT post time Saturday. A field of six, the smallest since Gallant Man beat five rivals in 1957, is expected to answer the buble call. CBS will televise between 4 and 5 p.m. CDT.

Formal entries will be made today, a day later than the formality at Churchill Downs and Pimlico.

Majestic Prince, the big, mahogany-colored thunderbolt out of the West ridden by Bill Hartack, is a 6-5 choice to become the first winner of the Triple Crown since Citation in 1948 and the first ever to make the sweep without a prior defeat. He has won nine straight races.

Virginia-bred Arts and Letters is 8-5. The outside challengers are Rooney's Shield, 20-1; Distray, 20-1, and Prime Fool, 30-1. Prime Fool, winner of his last three races, will have the displaced jockey, Velasquez, on his back.

Neither Laurin nor Dike's owner, A. B. "Bull" Hancock, chose to discuss the reason behind the late change in jockeys but both were said to have been critical of Velasquez' ride in the Derby.

At Louisville, Dike, winner of the Wood Memorial, appeared ready to take command at the head of the stretch and run over Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters in the dash to the wire. But he hung there momentarily and finished third despite an approximate 23 4-5 seconds last quarter.

Observers said Velasquez made his move too early with what is described as a one-run horse.

"He wouldn't have caught our horse if they'd made another trip around the track," the Prince's trainer, Johnny Longden, commented afterward.

Longden can become the first man ever to score a Triple Crown victory as both a rider and trainer. He swept the boards with Count Fleet in 1943.

In 1947, the great Eddie Arcaro was taken off Phalanx, second in the Derby and third in the Preakness, and replaced by Roperto Donoso, who proceeded to cox Phalanx to victory in the Belmont.

The Prince, although reportedly tired and underweight, worked the half-mile Thursday in 45 4-5 and galloped another one-eighth for 59 seconds. Arts and Letters went five-eights in 57.3 and clocked 1:11 for six furlongs in an impressive final tune-up. Rooney's Shield, in a secret workout at Aqueduct, did six furlongs in 1:12.2.

TWO SHARE WESTERN LEAD

Bill Maxwell, Beard At 66

. . . FIVE UNDER PAR

Midlothian, Ill. (AP) — Steady Frank Beard and weathered veteran Billy Maxwell carved out five-under-par 66's Thursday and tied for the first round lead in the prestigious Western Open Golf Tournament, one of this county's oldest.

Their scores were the same. But that's about where it ended.

The steady Beard, back from a two-week rest, gunned his irons at the pins with rifle accuracy, even drawing praise from playing partner Jack Nicklaus.

While the 5-foot-7 Maxwell said he "scrambled all over the place.

"It would take me 30 minutes to tell you how much I scrambled," the little Texan drawled.

Each finished with five birdies and no bogeys and held a one-stroke lead on a pair of non-winners, Rocky Thompson and Dick Rhyan, tied for third with 67s.

Tied at 68, three under par on the 6,654 yard Midlothian Country Club course, were former Masters champion Bob Goalby, South African Gary Player, Bob Murphy, Jack Ewing and Mike Hill.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, who said he has been having some troubles with his swing, had to eagle the par five 16th to salvage a par 71 and was well back in the pack.

Some of the other top names, also had their difficulties. U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and PGA champ Julius Boros all had 72. Masters champ George Archer struggled in with a 74.

Arnold Palmer is not competing.

Long Beach Slugger Top Nat Draftee

New York (AP) — Ted Williams' Washington Senators grabbed an 18-year-old high school slugger from Long Beach, Calif., who may sign for $100,000, as the No. 1 pick in Thursday's fifth annual summer free agent draft of schoolboy and college baseball players.

The Senators picked Jeff Burroughs, a 6-foot-1, 200-pound outfielder from Woodrow Wilson High who hit five balls out of Anaheim Stadium while manager Williams watched in a recent trial.

"He doesn't have an outstanding arm nor outstanding speed," said Williams, "but he has an outstanding bat."

Jack Sheehan, the Senators' chief scout, already was on the scene but Burroughs cannot be signed until his class graduates June 18. The highest bonus reportedly paid a rookie Senator was $60,000 for pitcher Joe Coleman, first-round selection in the first draft in 1965.

"I'm definitely interested in signing if the price is right, said Burroughs in Long Beach.

In the AAA draft by major league clubs with minor league affiliates, San Francisco tapped Kansas State's Jack Woolsey, a left-handed outfielder, for their Phoenix farm.

Kansas City drafted Howard Phillips, 17, a shortstop from Fresno, Calif., for Omaha.

The 24 clubs dug deep into the pool of free agents from the June graduating classes at high school, junior college and colleges and those who had become eligible by reaching their 21st birthday. The draft was to continue through today. The club selecting the athlete gets exclusive negotiating rights until the next draft period.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn who opened the draft session advised the clubs they were accepting serious obligations to negotiate seriously and honestly. He warned the clubs against tampering with players drafted by other teams.

ATHLETES TURN POLICEMEN

The six uniformed policemen are members of Nebraska football or basketball squads during the school year, but are serving as policemen on the Lincoln Police Department this summer. They are from left, Carl Ashman, Dan Hartman, Don McGhee, Ken Cauble, Joe Buda and Ron Drakulich. The trio in civilian clothes are from the NU Law College and are, from left, James Livngston, Mark Sipple and Gary Giese.

Expos Lose Games, But Fans Don't Mind

. . . 9,510 SEE LOSS RECORD FALL

Montreal (AP) — The advertisement, in large black letters, stood out in the middle of a sports page.

"Ours is the only city in the world," the Expos' ad said, "where you don't lose a fan because you lose a game."

Even now, after the Montreal Expos of the National League have lost 18 consecutive games, they seem to have trouble losing their fans.

The Expos dropped their 18th straight Wednesday night — 8-3 to San Francisco Giants — but there were 9,510 fans at Jarry Park for the game, carried on the French-language television network of the CBC.

The defeat broke the record of most consecutive losses by an expansion team in its initial season of action. The New York Mets held the previous record of 17, set in 1962.

On Tuesday night, when the Expos went down 9-3 to the Giants to tie the record, there were 19,399 fans on hand.

Defeat, even under the best of circumstances, often is bitter. But in this baseball mad city they even stand to cheer a foe for contributing to the wrecking of their home club.

"I look about me and just shake my head in astonishment," said Jim Fanning, general manager of the Expos. "There is nothing to match the devotion of these people.

"They are the talk of the league. And, you know, the unbelieveable thing is that when we lose a game many people, instead if tossing the usual jeers or barbs at anyone connected with the team, actually come to me and encourage me to keep plugging. They actually feel for us."

Recognition of talent on the opposing side was clearly shown Tuesday night in a long standing ovation which greeted Willie Mays when he stepped up to the plate for the first time in the game.

He got another standing ovation when he hit a home run over the fence into the left-field seats.

The Expos have been averaging more than 15,000 fans for each home date and only on a few occasions have they shown hostility toward any of the Expos.

Red Fisher, sports editor and columnist of The Montreal Star, said in a column Thursday that the Expos' dreary record "is starting to become the latest joke, which is not very funny."

"Eighteen in a row is no laughing matter, even if everybody loves this baseball team. Maybe that's the trouble: Too many people love this group of losers. By now, even the opposition loves them."

Maury Wills Has Change Of Heart

. . . WILL REJOIN EXPOS

Vancouver (AP) — Montreal's Maury Wills, who asked for voluntary retirement Tuesday, will rejoin the Expos in Los Angeles, general manager Jim Fanning said Thursday.

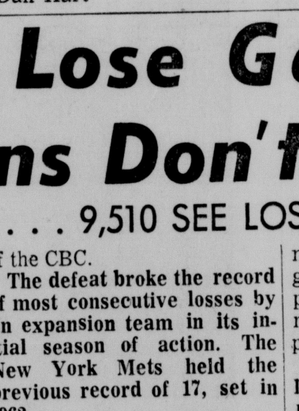

"He called me this afternoon and asked to rejoin the team," said Fanning, here with the Expos for an exhibition baseball game Thursday with Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League.

Fanning said Tuesday night in Montreal he had received a typewritten note from Wills asking to be placed on the voluntary retirement list.

"We'll notify the league not to process his letter," he said Thursday. He said he didn't know if Wills would start in Friday night's game with the Dodgers.

Wills, 36, drafted from Pittsburgh, set a modern major league record in 1962 with the Los Angeles Dodgers when he stole 104 bases. He had stolen 12 in 17 attempts this year and had a .198 batting average in 43 games.

Meanwhile, Norm Trasolini, general manager of Vancouver, which has a working agreement with the Expos, said pitchers John Reed and Leo Marentette have been asked to Montreal while Expo hurlers Carroll Sembera and Steve Shea will remain in Vancouver.

MAURY WILLS

Sembera pitched in 19 games with Montreal and had a 0-2 record and a 3.10 ERA, an 0-0 with a 2.98 ERA in 10 games.

GI, Geneva Men Win Trap Honors

Doniphan (AP) — Joe Miller of Grand Island and Ernest Heinrichs of Geneva won top honors Thursday on the opening day of the 91st annual Nebraska State Trapshoot here.

Miller won the Directors' Shoot, and Heinrichs, firing a perfect score, capped the Open Doubles competition.

Miller scored a 197 — 200 is perfect—in his shoot, which included 100 targets from a 16-yard rise and 100 targets from handicap yardage. Gerald Larson of Hordville and John Voss of Omaha tied for second.

Heinrichs did not miss while shooting at 25 pairs of double targets. George Zimmerman of Big Springs, Bill Johnson of Holdrege, Lawrence Fritz of Adams and Charles Cannon of Salisbury, N.C., tied for runnerup award at 49.

A record field of possibly 300 was expected for the Tour-day meet. The first state championships—the Nebraska Doubles and the Nebraska Open — were scheduled for today.

-FIALA SECOND STRING-

Year Of Youth On Big 8 Club

Kansas City, Mo. — The take-over by first-year men in Big Eight Conference baseball this year, graphically illustrated in the final hitting figures, becomes even more evident with the selection of a freshman-sophomore dominated all-Big Eight team by the league's players and coaches.

Six of the first-year men, including the only unanimous choice, Missouri's Steve Patchin, a freshman catcher, were named to the 10-man squad, which is compiled from the all-opponent teams of the conference members.

ADRIAN FIALA

Though five who made last year's team returned this year, only Oklahoma State's scrappy Steve Houck made it for the second year in a row, grabbing off one of the outfield spots. Teammates Mike Tate, first base, and Bill Dobbs, pitcher, and Kansas State's Bob Randall, shortstop, were the only veterans gathering in a first-team spot this year.

Patchin was the one freshman choice in this first season when yearlings were eligible for competition. Sophomore newcomers joining him on the elite unit were Kansas State's Bill Huisman, second base; Oklahoma's Chris Rickey, third base; and Mike Swenton, outfield; Colorado's Dudley Mitchell, outfield; and Kansas' Dave Robisch, pitcher.

The naming of Patchin on seven all-opponent teams was not a surprise. He had great success against all, finishing with a .397 batting average.

Nebraska catcher Adrian Fiala, who hit .316, was on the second team. He was the only Husker chosen.

Fire Destroys 43 Harness Horses In Saratoga Barn

Saratoga Springs, N.Y. (AP) — Fire raged through a large barn at historic Saratoga Raceway early Thursday, destroying 43 harness racing horses.

Raceway spokesmen have estimated the loss in the neighborhood of $500,000. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

It was the fourth disastrous fire involving horses in the east recently.

Among the horses killed in the fire was the filly Jostle, valued at more than $100,000. Jostle reached the national standings two years ago as a 2-year-old.

NBA To Add Two Clubs For 1970-71

Detroit (AP) — The National Basketball Association voted Thursday to add two cities to its 14-team lineup for the 1970-71 season.

While owners declined comment, there were rumors the NBA plans to split into four divisions, as have the major professional football and baseball leagues.

At least one NBA source speculated the league eventually may be expanded to 20 teams. He and others declined speculation, however, regarding cities which might be added in 1970-71 or later.

J. Walter Kennedy, NBA commissioner, previously had declared the NBA had no immediate intentions to merge with the rival American Basketball Association, following the course of the National and American Football leagues.

After admitting Milwaukee and Phoenix for the 1968-69 season, the NBA declared an expansion moratorium for the 1969-70 season.

The NBA mushroomed from nine to 14 clubs over a five year span, having taken in Seattle and San Diego in 1967-68 and Chicago in 1966-67, before adding Milwaukee and Phoenix.

At the time Milwaukee and Phoenix were added, Kennedy said the league also had bids from Miami, Kansas City, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Houston and Portland, Ore.

NBA owners decided earlier to award penalty shots after five team fouls in any period, instead of six.

Henceforth after five fouls by a team in any period its opponent will get an extra free-throw on either a one-shot or two-shot foul. The rule has been six.

Except for offensive and double fouls personal fouls count as team fouls.

Pro Football Schedule Agreed On

New York (AP) — Pro football's 26 club owners have decided on a nine-year rotation schedule starting in 1970, commissioner Pete Rozelle said Thursday.

At the end of the 1978 season, every team will have played every other team under the system.

The only exception in the format worked out is the Denver Broncos, who will play one more National Conference opponent each year for the first five seasons than the other 12 American Conference teams.

Rozelle said that if the NFL owners have time Friday they will continue their realignment discussion, but if not they will probably reconvene sometime next month.

The 13 teams that will comprise the National Conference in 1970 still must be realigned into two divisions of four teams and one of five.

Harlan Weber went three for four at the plate including a grand slam home run in the second inning Wednesday night at Ballard Field to lead KOLN-TV to a 16-0 romp over the Tack Room in an AAA softball game.

The KOLN-Tack Room game was called after five innings due to the 10-run rule. KOLN scored nine of its runs in the second and four more in the fourth en route to the victory.

Rally Saves 1st National

First National Bank jumped on Aamco hurler Jim Starita for two first-inning runs, then had to use a six-run eighth-inning rally to gain a 10-5 Junior American Legion baseball victory at Sherman Field Thursday night.

In a midget game, Havelock blanked Roberts-Skyline, 10-0, with John Logan limiting the Roberts-Skyline club to only three hits and helping his own cause by banging out a bases loaded triple in the sixth. Logan finished the game with three hits, two of them triples.

Aamco had tied the score in the second, 2-2, then went ahead, 5-2, in the top of the fifth, but First National bounded back with two runs in the bottom of that inning, setting up the eighth-inning rally.

Guerin To Retire

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Coach Richie Guerin of the Atlanta Hawks said Thursday that his playing days in the National Basketball Association are over.

"I don't intend to play any more," Guerin said, "now that I have players available like Gary Gregor, Wally Anderzunas and Butch Beard."

Gregor, acquired in a trade with the Phoenix Suns; Beard, Louisville playmaker who was the Hawks' first draft choice, and Anderzunas of Creighton, their second pick, were introduced at a luncheon.

"The only reason I played the past season," said Guerin, who "retired" after the 1967 season and reactivated himself last winter, "was because we needed players."

Injury Sidelines Smith For Game

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Larry Smith, hard-running halfback at Florida the past three years, apparently won't be able to play in the Coaches All-America football game June 28 because of a foot injury.

The loss of Smith is another setback for the all-star game which has been hurt by the probable absence of Heisman Trophy winner O. J. Simpson of Southern Cal.

Simpson has not signed a pro contract and is not expected to play in the All-America game unless he and the Buffalo Bills come to terms.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Father Needs Finance Plan For Military Service Time

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

A young father about to enter the armed services asks for guidance regarding his money affairs.

His queries include legal and accounting problems. According he would do well to seek out a knowledgeable trust officer in his community and get him to analyze his position and to recommend a local tax attorney and/or certified public accountant.

His first decision turns on when to take a capital gain on $50,000 of extensive acreage ceded to him when he was a child. The inquirer wants to know whether to realize gains over a three-year period or take them all now.

Since a long term capital gain is involved, splitting up the sale over a period of time along lines worked out by a competent attorney would make sense. It would seem sensible to have the sale occur in the two years of reduced income while in military service rather than over a three-year period.

The cost basis is the historic price originally paid by the donor. This year the ceiling of 25% on the capital gain tax is enlarged by the 10% surtax, so that deferment for a while in the hope of repeal of the surtax would be desirable.

There would be no visible gain from putting half of the land in his wife's name, since the husband is entitled to make a joint return with his wife and split the taxable income into two equal parts.

After disposal of the proceeds, he is considering mutual funds, convertible bonds, and trust funds. Inexperienced in investments, he should investigate mutual funds, closed-end investment companies, and common trust funds. There would be tax savings in setting up 10-year irrevocable trusts for his three dependents, enabling accumulations in trust funds in the lower tax brackets for educational and other purposes.

Q. A young professional man in New York City writes: "Would you kindly explain debentures, how they are bought, taxability, and their advantages and disadvantages. How does the former differ from ordinary bonds? How is the return determined, and what is meant by "noncallable"? As you can see, I am sadly lacking in financial knowledge but I have to start sometime."

A. For an explanation of financial terms, see Janet Low's book, "The Investor's Dictionary." Then read such volumes as Benjamin Graham's "The Intelligent Investor" and Babson's "Investing for a Successful Future."

A debenture is a long term corporate promissory note secured by no lien on specified property but is a charge on the borrower's general credit. Like other bonds it has a due date and a specified rate of interest. Some debentures are specifically subordinated and constitute claims which are satisfied only after those of lending banks which make commercial (short term) loans to the borrower have been met.

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Trust Officer Recommended

Like straight bonds, the conventional debenture represents a promise to return principal or pay interest in a specified fixed number of dollars. In inflated times, the investor gets back dollars of reduced buying power. At present, interest rates are unprecedentedly high. Some corporations accordingly insert in the loan agreement the privilege of redeeming or calling such bonds before the due date, usually at a premium.

All bond interest is subject to the income tax, except municipal and state bonds.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be handled in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

TO BAYLY MANUFACTURING COMPANY STOCKHOLDERS

CONCERNING THE GENTLEMAN FROM TEXAS:

A Mr. J. C. Wood of Waco, Texas, has tendered for at least 149,280 shares of Bayly Manufacturing Company stock.

He is offering $20 a share. He tells you to take it or leave it by June 17.

To us at Bayly, most of whose shareholders are Westerners and Midwesterners, Mr. Wood's offer is most curious.

Bayly management urges that you examine his offer carefully, examine his business background carefully and then make up your own minds.

Because you are a Bayly shareholder, you know about the progress we have made together. You know that the apparel field has tremendous potential throughout the nation. You know from Bayly's past record that your Company is eminently capable of achieving that full potential.

That's why Mr. Wood wants in. He once owned an apparel company, smaller than Bayly is now, and sold out to Genesco, a large shoe, apparel and retail company.

Unquestionably Mr. Wood knows a good thing when he sees it. But that's no reason to let him profit at your expense. If Bayly's stock didn't have a potential of far more than the $20 price he is offering, he wouldn't be trying his raid.

We say this to the gentleman from Texas: You know Bayly's earnings have increased from 81 cents in 1965 to $1.54 per share in fiscal 1968. We are estimating $2.00 per share earnings for the current year. You know the market price of Bayly stock has increased from its February 1965 offering price of $5.83, (adjusted for the 3 for 2 stock split in 1968) to $17.25, the last price for which the stock was sold on May 29, 1969. That's an increase of over 290%.

Because of the substantial rise in the price of Bayly shares, many of you would be subject to a whopping capital gains tax, plus the 10% federal surtax, if you were to sell to the gentleman from Texas.

We, the management and officers of Bayly, do not intend to sell. We do not intend to knuckle under to the gentleman from Texas. We will fight him as hard and as fair as we know how.

We hope, after considering all the facts in this attempted stampede by the gentleman from Texas—who is trying to hurry you into a decision by June 17—that you will join us in keeping Bayly management control where it is now.

Together we can build an even more impressive record for the future.

Blue Chips Rise In Stock Market

New York (AP) — Blue chips led the stock market Thursday to its first gain of the week in fairly active trading.

The averages were unanimous in proclaiming a modest rise but declines held the edge over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Glamor stocks, which had stood out during the market's decline of more than two weeks, lost some of their sparkle.

Brokers said the market's better showing probably was due to investors' continuing glimmer of hope that the meeting between President Nixon and South Vietnam President Thieu would produce tangible results in regard to the war. But, they said, the tight money situation continued to be a source of apprehension.

The market opened on a firm note, reached its highest level around mid-day and then drifted back.

Trading volume of 12.35 million shares — up from 10.84 million Wednesday — was the briskest in two weeks. The Big Board's ticker tape trailed by two minutes in reporting floor transactions at the close.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed with a gain of 1.87 at 930.71 after having been up 3.17 in early afternoon. The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced .8 to 331.7 with industrials up 1.8, rails off .3 and utilities up .8.

Of 1,597 issues traded on the Big Board, 700 declined and 612 advanced. There were 116 new 1969 lows and 33 new highs.

A huge block of 463,000 shares of Goodyear was traded at 30, off ⅞, on the New York exchange. Goodyear closed at 30⅛, off ¾, on total volume of 523,400, which made it the most active issues. The block was a transaction involving institutional investors.

On a delayed opening, Standard Oil Ohio was quoted unchanged at 95¼ on 123,000 shares. Later trading was halted briefly. The issue closed at 95, off ¼, on total volume of 329,700 shares. Ohio Standard has been active since announcement last Monday of its plans to merge with British Petroleum.

Steels, mail order-retails, chemicals and drugs advanced. Motors, rubbers, aircrafts, tobaccos and building materials were mostly lower.

Prices declined on the American Exchange. Its index dipped 5 cents to $30.70. Volume fell to 5.56 million shares from 6.6 million Wednesday.

U.S. Vessel Failed To Heed 2 Warnings Of Melbourne

By United Press International

Just prior to their fatal collision last Tuesday, the Australian carrier Melbourne twice ordered the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans to change course and got no response, reliable sources told UPI Thursday.

The sources, who declined to be identified for publication even by geographic location, said officers on the Melbourne bridge realized collision was possible when they saw the Evans fail to complete a turn as expected while changing stations and head directly toward them.

SKIPPER . . . of Melbourne, Capt. John Phillip Stevenson.

The destroyer was traveling from an antisubmarine guard station ahead of the carrier to a station assigned "rescue destroyers" for flight operations either behind of the big ship or beside it. The Melbourne was about to launch or land planes.

The Evans crossed the carrier's bow from right to left and was cut in two. Seventy-four Americans lost their lives in the South China sea accident.

In cases of possible collision between an aircraft carrier at flight operations and a smaller ship, standard procedure in both navies requires the smaller ship to take evasive action. It is called the "burdened" ship.

Evans Asked To Turn

The sources said U.S. Navy officers were told in briefings that the Melbourne bridge officers signaled the Evans to change course urgently as soon as they saw the destroyer's course was taking it toward them.

Preliminary reports indicate the Evans failed even to acknowledge this signal.

It was not disclosed what method the Melbourne used for this signal, but usual procedure for such communications in night-time emergencies would be direct bridge-to-bridge radiotelephone. Flashing light is the other method that could have been used.

As the two ships continued to close, the sources said, the Melbourne sent a second message saying she was going to "parallel" — an Australian navy term which means that both ships are to swing to their port (left) side, so that the two vessels would pass clear with each to the other's right side.

No Time Allowed

The Evans again failed to acknowledge the signal and sailed directly under Melbourne's bow, the sources said, leaving the Melbourne bridge no time to turn.

They said the possibility was not ruled out that the Evans had encountered steering or engine failure. But it was considered unusual in that case for the destroyer not to have advised the carrier of it.

In Sydney, official reports from the Royal Australian Navy indicated its position at a forthcoming naval inquiry would be that the Melbourne sounded "emergency stations" alarms before the collision happened.

It released extracts of cables received from the Melbourne which said "the automatic reaction on the part of Melbourne's crew was responsible for saving the lives of many United States sailors."

It said all but one of the 199 survivors were picked up by Melbourne helicopters or sailors within 25 minutes of the collision.

NO HAIRCUT PROMISED

Pozarevac, Yugoslavia (AP) — A long-haired youth who escaped from a delinquents' home barricaded himself in a house and shot at police, holding them at bay for five hours. He surrendered when they promised not to make him cut his hair.

Rocky Vows To Continue Latin Trips

New York (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Thursday he is determined to continue his Latin-American fact-finding trips for President Nixon.

The New York Republican said he will go ahead with the final two legs of his four-trip tour despite violence and threats of violence and despite requests by three countries that he not come.

Rockefeller has been forced to skip Peru and Venezuela, and Chile has now asked him not to come on a scheduled visit.

The fact-finding tour, Rockefeller insisted, has been a "great success" so far. He charged that editorial writers have given the American people a "misleading" picture of his tour.

Speaking at a Republican State Committee luncheon, Rockefeller praised Nixon's decision to send him to Latin America, as well as denouncing the editorial writers.

"We have," he said, "an American president who for the first time in history, before making a declaration of policy, wants to find out how you think. That is unique."

Rain Brightens City Following A Long Winter

Lincoln has enjoyed an exceptionally green spring as a result of plentiful spring rains following a long winter, according to Lancaster County Extension Agent Emery Nelson.

Noting that the city's trees, shrubs and grass have been greener than usual, Nelson said plants "seem to grow more vigorously after a long, cold winter."

Mrs. Eisenhower Allowed To Stay At Family Farm

Washington (UPI) — At Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower's request, the Interior Department ruled Thursday that she can continue to live at the former President's Gettysburg, Pa., farm as long as she wishes.

Secretary Walter J. Hickel said a special permit issued by George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the National Park Service, provides that Mrs. Eisenhower will have the use of the family home, guest house and 14 acres of the 230-acre farm as long as she wants.

Eisenhower, who died March 28, deeded the farm adjoining the Gettysburg National Military Park to the federal government Nov. 27, 1967. It was designated as the Eisenhower National Historic Site by the National Park Service.

Tide Of Inflation Said To Continue

Toronto (UPI) — President Nixon's top economic adviser said Thursday a long wait may be necessary before U.S. inflation abates.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said an ebb in rising prices will come only after other levels of economic activity slow down more than they have.

He said it was essential that "we be realistic about the time required for visible results to appear."

McCracken spoke to a conference of the Canadian Economics Association in Toronto.

THE AMERICAN-MADE MILLIONAIRES IN VIETNAM —What percentage of American contribution to the Vietnam War finds its way into the secret bank accounts of South Vietnamese finaglers? Little Opposition Voiced To State Voc Ed Plan

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The voluminous Nebraska State Plan for vocational education met very little opposition from the public or members of the State Board of Vocational Education at a hearing on the proposal here Thursday.

The plan, revamping the state's vocational education structure, setting new standards and revising funding formulas, was written in line with the federal Vocational Education Amendments passed by Congress in 1968.

State board members will act on the three-volume proposal at their meeting Friday, chairman Allan Burkhardt of Norfolk announced.

Set For July 1

If the board approves the plan, it will be submitted to the U.S. commissioner for federal scrutiny. Implementation is slated for July 1, according to State Department of Education officials.

Glen Strain, deputy chief of the State Division of Vocational Education, detailed the plan to board members and some 75 school officials and other citizens at a two-hour session Thursday afternoon.

The plan details the control and administration of programs for vocational education at the public school and post high school levels, including area vocational-technical schools, educational service units, and statewide agencies.

Outlined Requirements

Strain outlined the requirements and procedures for applying for state and federal funds in ten categories: general funds, state vocational education programs, state programs for the disadvantaged, state research and training in vocational education, exemplary programs and projects, residential schools, consumer and homemaking programs, cooperative vocational education programs and work-study programs.

In all categories there is heavy emphasis on programs for disadvantaged youth, it was pointed out. For example, it was reported, one-third of the funds alloted to homemaking programs must be spent for the disadvantaged.

A significant change will be in the funding process Strain announced. Schools no longer can be reimbursed on a uniform percentage basis. Payment must be based on individual needs.

Complicated Formula

John Elias, director of business and distributive education in the vocational education division, explained the complicated funding formula which will weigh such factors as manpower needs and job opportunities, impact of proposed programs, number of disadvantaged and handicapped students, excess costs, youth organizations, up-to-date curriculum and duration and intensity of instruction.

The formula also takes into account "relative ability to pay" on the part of school districts.

Elias described the formula as a "management-type approach to distribution of funds."

The plan, as well as the funding formulas, will be reviewed on an annual basis to be certain they are workable, he asserted. And the board will reserve the right to review formulas at any time.

Federal funds must be used to supplement state and local contributions, Elias emphasized. The state and school districts must maintain previous fiscal efforts in vocational education.

More Funds

Strain reported that Nebraska will receive slightly more federal funds for state vocational education programs in 1970. However, total funds utilized for these programs, expected to amount to $6,141,776, will be somewhat less than expended during fiscal 1969.

He estimated a total of $1,742,754 will be allocated next year to the state from federal sources. Some $731,364 in state funds and $3,667,658 in local funds are expected to be spent as matching for state vocational education programs.

The long-range plan provisions, written for five years, includes analyses of manpower needs, job opportunities, the need for availability of vocational education, state's population relating to vocational education needs, vocational education program needs, and vocational education program objectives.

Young Blasts Bad Attitude Of Railroads

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, accused the nation's railroads Thursday of a "public be damned" attitude toward passenger service.

"Crowded, poorly ventilated, dirty coaches give convincing evidence that railroad officials regard passengers as necessary evils, and make their money carrying freight," Young said in a Senate speech.

Books Donated In Drive At NU To Go To Officials

More than 100 books, donated by students during an all-University of Nebraska drive, will be mailed Friday to all U.S. Senators and top officials of the federal government, including President Richard Nixon.

The book, "An Alternative to War or Surrender" by Charles Osgood, proposes a program called GRIT (Graduated Reciprocation In Tension-reduction) designed to reduce international tension and reverse the arms race.

A letter accompanying the books will describe the subject matter and urge each recipient to evaluate Osgood's new approach to foreign policy.
